THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXXVI.—NO 313 ATLANTA, GA., SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1904—TWELVE PAGES. PRICE FIVE CENTS

SUMMARY OF NEWS

FRIDAY IN EAST AT A GLANCE

IT is reported that the Japanese have bombarded Niuchwang and that a large force has been landed which will act in concert with the troops landed at the mouth of the Yalu.

The Japanese forces in Korea are now ready to move, and will, it is believed, make a dash for the Yalu from three distinct points in a few days.

An official telegram received at St. Petersburg states that the Japanese are centered in force about Wiju. A small Russian detachment was engaged, but succeeded in crossing the Yalu, having two killed and fifteen wounded.

GREECE AND ARGENTINA MAY SELL RUSSIA SHIPS.

Paris, April 22.—Information reached the officials here to the effect that Russia is negotiating with Greece and Argentina for the purchase of warships. The indications are that the negotiations with Greece will not be successful. The negotiations with Argentina for a cruiser are understood to hinge largely on the question of price.

TRAFFIC ON ROAD BLOCKED BY ELEPHANT

East St. Louis, April 22.—An elephant en route to the world's fair threw himself out of a box car in and effort to secure its liberty and then stubbornly refused to go back into the car, caused a suspension of business on a railroad for five hours east of here today. The freight train had stopped. In some way the car door swung open and the elephant jumped out. Heavy chains prevented the beast from throwing its body entirely out. A crowd of men endeavored to lift the elephant in the car but failed. Then railroad men placed jack screws under the bulky body and finally placed the elephant back in the car and traffic was resumed.

PANAMA CANAL ROUTE PASSES TO UNCLE SAM

Title to Route Across Isthmus Vested in United States Government.

CONTRACT NOW SIGNED, SEALED AND DELIVERED

Strip for Canal Between Atlantic and Pacific Becomes Government's Property—Negotiations Completed and Uncle Sam Has Full Title.

Paris, April 22.—The sociated Press is authorized to announce that the contract by which the ownership of the Panama canal passes to the United States is signed, sealed, delivered and complete.

The title to the canal route is now vested in the government of the United States.

The document by which this transaction is consummated bears the signatures of President Bo and Director Richman, of the Panama Canal Company, who signed for the company as its responsible officials. The transfer is complete and without reservation and the United States secures a perfect title.

Will Be Ratified Today.

This result has been accomplished quietly and most unexpectedly, as the public has been given to understand that the contract would not be executed until after the meeting of the stockholders of the Panama Canal Company tomorrow, at which the question of ratification would be presented. As a matter of fact, however, when the meeting takes place tomorrow, President Bo will announce that the sale has been completed and instead of asking for authority to execute a future contract, it will only remain to ratify the contract of sale, which the officers of the company have already formally completed.

It is confidently believed that the completion of the sale before the meeting will increase the vote for ratification, as it will be recognized that nothing more remains but to acquiesce in the action taken by the highest officers of the company.

When W. A. Day and Charles W. Russell, the United States assistant attorneys general, who are in Paris to assist in the transfer of property, were seen tonight by the Associated Press they reluctantly admitted that the transfer had been consummated, and in order to avoid misunderstandings regarding a transaction of this magnitude they furnished the following official statement in writing:

"The papers transferring the rights and property by the new Panama Canal Company to the United States have already been executed and delivered. They will be ratified tomorrow afternoon by the stockholders' meeting.

"The arrangement includes a general conveyance and provisions for deeds in the republic of Panama and in the canal zone now under the jurisdiction of the United States, in which zone the civil law continues in force by reason of the cession of the zone from a civil law sovereignty. All formalities of the local law on the isthmus have been arranged for and secured to the United States.

"The property will shortly be delivered on the isthmus, and upon that being done the purchase price will be immediately paid.

"The full total of the principal documents will be made public tomorrow night.

"The United States gets an unincumbered title."

TAKING TURTLES CAUSED ARREST

Everything Quiet at Bluefields Say Passengers from Port.

New Orleans, April 22.—Passengers arriving here from Bluefields today brought some details of the seizure of the six British schooners in that harbor as a result of which Great Britain is to lodge complaint with Nicaragua, and it is reported send the cruiser Retribution to Bluefields. The captains of the schooners, when caught, contended that they were fishing in neutral waters.

The Nicaraguan commandant said they were confiscating turtles bred in Nicaraguan waters. The net result of the dispute was the seizure of the schooners and the incarceration of their crews in the jail at Bluefields. The schooners are lying safely in the harbor.

"When I left Bluefields," said J. A. Jeangran, who arrived today, "things were as calm as a summer sea. There was no excitement over the seizures and no apparent apprehension of trouble."

The people of Bluefields generally support the commandant in the seizures. The turtle fisheries constitute an important item of Nicaraguan commerce and are jealously guarded.

There has long been friction between the authorities and the crews of foreign vessels, but only now has Nicaragua determined on drastic measures to enforce her claims.

University To Be Dedicated.

Raleigh, N. C., April 22.—(Special.)—Arrangements are completed for the dedication, May 17, of the Baptist Female university here, with the largest popular gathering of Baptists ever held in North Carolina.

Treaty of Northern Powers.

Berlin, April 22.—According to a telegram from Stockholm, negotiations with a view to a conjoint declaration of neutrality by Norway, Sweden and Denmark have reached a satisfactory conclusion. The agreement will be published toward the end of the month.

INITIAL SPEECH MADE BY HEARST

Congressman Appeared Before House Judiciary Committee.

Supported His Resolution Instructing Attorney General To Give House Evidence in Case Against Coal-Carrying Roads—Made Good Impression.

By Jos: Ohl.

Washington, April 22.—(Special.)—William R. Hearst made his first speech since coming to congress this morning. This was upon his appearance before the house committee on judiciary to argue for a favorable report upon his resolution calling upon the attorney general for the evidence against the anthracite coal-carrying roads, including the report of the United States district attorney.

Mr. Hearst appeared with his attorney and fortified by an array of papers and a lengthy brief reviewing the litigation instituted by himself which recently brought a decision from the supreme court in his favor.

He read from the brief, supplementing this with oral argument, and made a good impression.

"The attorney general has been brooding over that evidence like an old hen on a door knob for eighteen months. He has not acted in any way and won't let anybody take it away from him."

Representative William Hearst made this statement before the house committee on judiciary in arguing for a favorable report on his resolution calling on the attorney general for evidence against the anthracite coal carrying railways, which includes the report of the United States district attorney for the southern district of New York.

Mr. Hearst occupied the attention of the committee for an hour. He reviewed in detail the proceedings instituted by himself against the railroads, and demanded that action should be taken either by the attorney general or that the house should appoint a committee of seven of its members to compile anew the evidence in the possession of the attorney general with a view of securing action against these roads under the Sherman anti-trust act.

Methods of Trust Told.

The precise manner in which the anti-trust law was being violated as claimed by Mr. Hearst was when it became known to the six coal carrying roads that the independent coal mine operators contemplated building a road of their own to tidewater.

To prevent this the roads bought the property of Simpson & Watkins, owning eleven collieries, the largest of the independent operators. They also bought the Temple Iron Company, capitalized for $240,000, and recapitalized it at $15,000,000, guaranteeing 6 per cent annual interest on this capitalization. The price of coal in New York was then raised 50 cents a ton, netting an increased annual earning of $20,000. This, according to Mr. Hearst, constitutes a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and he declared he had placed reliable evidence in the form of affidavits to substantiate the same in the hands of the district attorney for the southern district of New York. This official had investigated the evidence and Mr. Hearst said he had been informed, though not officially, that the district attorney had reported the case to the department of justice eighteen months ago with a recommendation that the case had been made out.

Republican members of the convention questioned the necessity of calling upon the attorney general for the evidence, inasmuch as Mr. Hearst had furnished it to the district attorney in the first instance, and could as well furnish it to the committee. Representative De Armand, of Missouri, said that the country ought to know why the attorney general did not proceed in the matter. Mr. Hearst said it was impossible for him to procure the report of the district attorney, who had investigated the evidence furnished by him that would have to be obtained from the department of justice. The information, he said, in that report was entirely unofficial, but he believed trustworthy. It had been obtained from a person connected with the district attorney's office, but he declined to state from whom because it might embarrass the person in question.

Representative Palmer, republican, of Pennsylvania, asked if the present price of coal was an unreasonable one, and if the increase in the price had not occurred after the commission appointed by the president had increased the wages of the miners 10 per cent. This latter fact, Mr. Hearst conceded to be the case. He held that the combination, however, was realizing $20,000,000 a year out of the preservation of their monopoly and that the 10 per cent increase to miners did not amount to an aggregate of more than $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year.

The committee referred the Hearst resolution to a subcommittee consisting of Representatives Powers, of Massachusetts; Thomas, of Iowa, and Smith, of Kentucky, for further consideration.

Ogden Party in Columbia.

Columbia, S. C., April 22.—(Special.)—Ogden and his party of philanthropists reached Rock Hill today on their special train and were the guests of President Johnson, of the Winthrop College for Women. Governor Heyward, accompanied by Governor Aycock, welcomed the party.

North Carolina Fruit Killed.

Charlotte, N. C., April 22.—(Special.)—It is expected that the crop bulletin which will be issued next week will show the almost complete destruction of fruit in North Carolina. The damage has been done during the past ten days, when the severest weather ever known in April has prevailed.

SMOOT MAY LOSE SEAT IN SENATE

Sentiment Against Senator from Utah on Increase.

Evidence Given Before Committee Has Proved Power of Mormon Church in State and Political Affairs—Secret Oath Binds Smoot.

By Jos: Ohl.

Washington, April 22.—(Special.)—At this stage of the proceedings in the investigation relating to Senator Reed Smoot and his right to hold his seat in the United States senate it seems likely that the report of the committee on privileges and elections may be in favor of unseating the Utah senator.

Nearly all the testimony in this case offered by the Protestants has been given before the committee. Witnesses for the defense will come later, but it is not expected by persons who have been carefully watching the proceedings that it will be possible for the Mormon church or for Senator Smoot to place himself in such a light before the committee as to allow him to retain his seat.

Of all the members of the Mormon hierarchy it has been generally admitted that Senator Smoot was the one who would be most likely to be acceptable as a member of the senate. There is no charge of polygamy against him, and there is nothing in his history to parallel the careers of some of the older officials of the church, so far as prominence in matters relating to the hierarchy is concerned, but the investigation has gone beyond the personal character of Senator Smoot.

It has been shown that he is a member of a secret hierarchy, and has taken oaths in the Endowment house, which none of the apostles of the church or others who have taken those oaths have been willing to divulge. It has been shown that the Mormon church in its authority is recognized as above the civil law.

One after another have in effect admitted that the divine law of revelation, which they claim to be their guide in the government of the church, should be obeyed, even when in conflict with the civil law. There is a mass of evidence tending to show that officials of the Mormon church who have undertaken to act at variance with its wishes in political matters have always been met by defeat, whereas when they received the sanction of the church they have been elected to offices to which they aspired.

Senator Smoot himself received the sanction of his church to become a candidate for the position of United States senator. Had he not done so, it is admitted by leading officials of the church, he would have been "out of harmony" with the church. Above all there is no doubt that the impression has constantly been growing on the minds of members of the committee that the Mormon church is in its essential principles and in its daily practices in violation of the constitution of the state of Utah, which is regarded as a solemn pledge on the part of the Mormon church that when the territory was given statehood not only would polygamy be abolished, but that there would be absolutely no interference on the part of the church in civil affairs.

There is a strong belief on the part of many that the mass of testimony has already fixed Senator Smoot as a member of a secret organization whose oaths he cannot divulge, which seeks to control in political and business affairs in such flagrant violation of the state constitution that he cannot be regarded as a proper person to represent that state in the United States senate.

Judge Powers on Stand.

The first witness today in the Smoot case before the senate committee on privileges and elections was Judge Powers, who was appointed by President Cleveland in 1885 as an associate justice of the supreme court of Utah.

At that time prosecutions under the Edmunds act were just beginning and during his incumbency he said there had been about 100 persons prosecuted for polygamy and polygamous cohabitation, among them being Lorenzo Snow, then one of the twelve apostles, who afterwards was elected president of the church. Mr. Snow was convicted and sentenced.

Judge Powers said he had examined persons who applied for naturalization. In regard to an application by one Neil Hanson, Judge Powers said he was informed by Hanson that he would obey the laws of the church rather than laws of the land if they should "run counter to each other." The application for citizenship was denied. In regard to the prosecutions, Judge Powers said most of them had been for polygamous cohabitation. Few prosecutions were had for polygamy, he said, as there was then no marriage law and marriages were secret and polygamy therefore was hard to prove.

Judge Powers reviewed the political history of Utah to show the close relations of the Mormon church with political affairs, also the intimate association of the church with the local and municipal government. He showed that the church controlled in civil, as well as ecclesiastical affairs. In one case it was shown that a man was disciplined and was summoned by A. C. Smoot, president of the high council of Utah Stake of Zion.

It was not shown that any relationship existed between Senator Smoot and the man mentioned.

Judge Powers, at the afternoon session, continued his review of political affairs in Utah, speaking specifically of the Thatcher and Roberts cases, when these men were charged with "disobeying the rules of the church by accepting a nomination for office without first taking counsel of the church." The witness quoted a number of officials of the church in their campaigns against Thatcher and Roberts, because of their acceptance of nominations without the consent of high church authorities.

Judge Powers spoke of Thatcher's candidacy for the senate and said that four days after Thatcher announced himself on a platform opposed to church interference in politics, he was deposed as an apostle. After his defeat an effort was made to bring about an investigation by the legislature of the charge that the defeat was accomplished by the ecclesiastical interference in the election. This effort was unsuccessful.

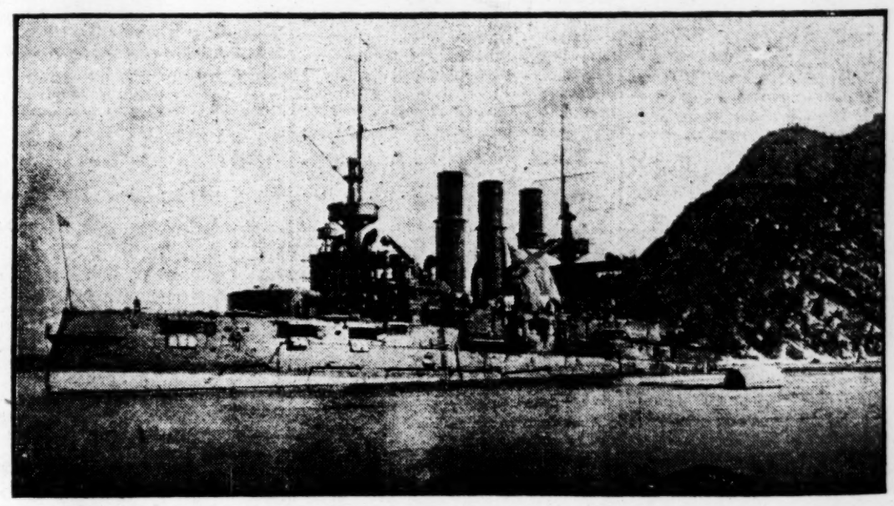

The witness also told of two teachers in Mormon churches and schools being deposed from their ecclesiastical authority because their political preferences were not approved by the church.

HARD FIGHTING ON YALU; JAPS ON FLANK MOVEMENT

RUSSIANS STILL KILLING THEMSELVES.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 22.---The Emperor has received the following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff bearing today's date:

"I respectfully report to Your Majesty that today, during the placing of mines by some steam launches, Lieutenant Pell and twenty men were killed through a mine exploding prematurely under the stern of one of the launches."

THE RUSSIAN BATTLE SHIP RETVIZAN ON THE ROCKS AT THE HARBOR ENTRANCE, PORT ARTHUR.

This vessel was one of the three warships that were torpedoed by the Japanese on the night of February 8, the opening engagement of the war. She was run ashore in a sinking condition, but settled in shallow water and has done service in subsequent engagements, acting as a floating battery. She has been of much assistance in defeating Admiral Togo's attempts to block the marbor entrance. The Retvizan was built at the Cramps' ship yard in Philadelphia in 1900, and was one of the best ships in the Russian navy.

CARRIED KNIVES FOR KUROPATKIN

Japanese Spies Attempt To Kill Russian General.

Disguised as Beggars the Spies Succeeded in Approaching the General—Men Were Seized and Long Knives Were Found on Them.

St. Petersburg, April 22.—Rumors are in circulation that two beggars attempted the assassination of General Kuropatkin when he was in Niuchwang a few days ago. It is said that the beggars succeeded in approaching the general and were talking to him when a guard noticed that one of them put his hand inside his robe. The men were seized and searched and knives were found upon them. It is said that the men were Japanese. The rumors cannot be confirmed tonight.

NO EUROPEAN POWER REAL FRIEND TO JAPANESE

Tokio, April 22.—Two significant speeches were made today at the meeting of the counsellors of the progressive party. Count Okuma warned the people of Japan to be prepared for intervention during the war by some European power and also for a great increase in the national expenditure after the war. He said it would be necessary after the termination of hostilities to float a loan of at least $250,000.

Masams Oishi, the progressive party leader, expressed the belief that Germany would take the initiative in intervention and declared that no power would welcome Japan's preponderance in the Far East. Many of the powers, he added, were prepared to resort to all means to curb the extension of Japanese influence.

M. Oishi criticized the foreign policy of Japan, saying the white books showed clearly that the great concessions offered to Russia would have been a national calamity had Russia accepted the lenient terms offered by Japan. The progressive party constitutes a third of the diet and its members generally oppose the government, of which Premier Katsura is the head.

RUSSIA SEEKS FRENCH LOAN OF $150,000,000.

Paris, April 22.—The European Economist says under reserve that Russia is negotiating with the principal French banks for a loan of $150,000,000 on 5 per cent for four-year treasury bonds, to be placed at 98.

The statement is not verified and appears based on yesterday's St. Petersburg reports indicating that the Russian government might resort to short-term loans.

JAP COLUMN ON YALU REPORTED DESTROYED

London, April 22.—A dispatch to the Central News from Port Arthur says news has been received there of the complete destruction of a Japanese column on the Yalu.

No details, it is added, were obtainable.

JAPANESE FLEET SEEN OFF CLIFFORD ISLAND.

Shanghai, April 22.—A Japanese fleet, consisting of twelve vessels, was sighted 30 miles southwest of Clifford island yesterday.

It showed no lights and was steaming slowly to the north.

RUSHING TROOPS TO SEAT OF WAR

Military Trains Pass Liao Yang Constantly.

Perpetual Movement of Troops Varied Only by Occasional Skirmishes with Japs on Yalu and with Chinese Outlaw Bands.

Liao Yang, Manchuria, April 22.—Occasional skirmishes with the Japanese along the Yalu river and unimportant tussles with small bands of Chinese bandits alone vary the monotony of the perpetual movement of troops to the seat of war.

Military trains are endlessly going up and down the line; infantry, cavalry and artillery are passing by daily.

The torrential rains which fell during the first fortnight of April did not affect the movement of troops.

A Red Cross hospital has been established here and a flying field detachment has been sent out with pack horses and trained dogs to find wounded men.

The hospital work is under the personal supervision of M. Alexandrovsky, formerly Russian commissioner to the St. Louis exposition.

The foreign military attaches are at General Kuropatkin's headquarters here. Some foreign newspaper men have arrived from Niuchwang.

A military newspaper will be published by General Kuropatkin's field staff.

SHIPPING IN PACIFIC IN DANGER OF LOOSE MINES.

Tientsin, April 22.—Floating mines have been seen off the Shan Tung promontory in the much used fairway followed by vessels bound to and from Shanghai and Chefoo and Tientsin and other northern ports.

This is extremely dangerous to shipping and probably will cause an increase in marine insurance.

RUSSIANS PUT YIN KOW UNDER STRICT MARTIAL LAW.

Tientsin, April 22.—If Viceroy Alexieff has declared Yin Kow, a terminus of the imperial Chinese railway, opposite Niuchwang, to be within the region under martial law the management of the imperial Chinese railway will consider it an unfriendly act, as it was prearranged that Yin Kow should be considered within a neutral zone. The imperial Chinese railway gives notice this morning by telegraph that it will not receive code messages at Yin Kow. When this is considered the war correspondents now at Mukden and Niuchwang will not be allowed to forward news of the slightest importance.

RESIGNATION OF ALEXIEFF CONFIRMED, SAYS THE TEMPS.

Paris, April 22.—The correspondent of The Temps at St. Petersburg says:

"The report that Viceroy Alexieff has asked for his recall is confirmed, but it is not yet known whether the emperor will accept his resignation."

First Japanese Army Reported To Have Crossed River Without Opposition.

KUROKI ON FORCED MARCH TO TURN RUSSIAN FLANK

St. Petersburg Strategists Fear Japanese General Is Moving Army Over Mountain Paths Despite Tremendous Obstacles.

London, April 23.—Rumors of severe fighting on the Yalu are reported in various forms and from various points.

For instance, the Shanghai correspondent of The Morning Post, says he hears that the first Japanese army has crossed the Yalu almost without opposition, and The Chronicle's correspondent at Seoul says that heavy fighting has occurred, but that for strategic reasons it is impossible to send particulars.

No authentic news, however, has reached London showing that anything has happened beyond skirmishing.

According to The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent, the Russian strategists are reluctantly arriving at the conviction that General Kuroki is engaged in the adventurous plan of advancing along the middle reaches of the Yalu river, via Kang Ge, and despite enormous difficulties is moving his army over the mountain paths, his purpose being to outflank the Russian position on the right bank of the Yalu.

Advices from Seoul state that a frontal attack is imminent.

JAPS SHELL NIUCHWANG; LAND FORCES AID ATTACK

St. Petersburg, April 22.—It is persistently rumored here that the Japanese have bombarded Niuchwang, ships on the Liao river acting in conjunction with a strong land force.

The troops landed will, it is rumored, attempt to effect a junction with the force reported landed near the mouth of the Yalu several days ago.

Great excitement exists by reason of rumors that the Japanese have cut Niuchwang off from every approach and will beleaguer the town from the river and by a land army.

TWO JAPANESE SPIES ARRESTED AT ARCHANGEL.

Archangel, Russia, April 22.—Two suspected Japanese have been arrested on the railroad near Vologda, in northeastern Russia, 302 miles from Moscow, with plans in their possession of Archangel and the famous monastery on the island of Solo Vetsky in the White sea.

JAPANESE IN FORCE CENTERED ABOUT WIJU

St. Petersburg, April 22.—An official telegram received here says the Russian scouting parties report that the Japanese are concentrated in considerable force, with war material and pontoons at and around Wiju. Shots were exchanged

NO AMERICAN BOATS SOLD TO BELLIGERENTS

Washington, April 22.—The United States government has had no official information of the sales persistently reported from Europe of American ships to either Russia or Japan. There already has been some speculation in official circles as to when or whether or not such sales could be permitted and one thing is quite certain, namely, that no vessel under the American flag could be allowed to pass directly into the possession of the government of either belligerent state.

This is said to be true of merchant ships as well as warships, as the former might easily be transformed to cruisers or used as troop transports and the spirit of modern international law is said to be decidedly against the transfer of any floating property to a belligerent which could be used for warlike purposes.

There is a line of difference between ships and war supplies. The latter may properly be regarded as merchandise. But to the official mind there is doubt as to the right to prevent the sale of one of the belligerent powers or to the citizen of a third power, unless it can be very clearly established that the vessel is not to pass to the possession of one of the belligerent governments. It happens there were no warships in the United States which could be sold, all being United States government property, so that the question is reduced to that of merchant vessels and that phase is receiving careful attention.

The principles laid down by the Geneva arbitration in the famous Alabama case, are, of course, the guiding marks for our government in treating this subject, and they have been generally accepted as international law by all maritime powers, so the reported sale of German vessels built under the subsidiary accounts and rated as possibly auxiliary cruisers has been the subject of discussion between the law officers.

ON WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY AUTHORITIES WIDE APART.

Washington, April 22.—There are signs of a difference of opinion between the civil and military branches of the government respecting the Russian decree against the United States of wireless telegraph by newspaper correspondents. The disposition of the service branches is distinctly in favor of governmental control, which makes toward the support of the Russian position. It is even argued that no civilian should be allowed to erect a wireless mast without executive permission, because its use might interfere with that of some military mast.

While the state department's opinion is not crystallized, it is known that the department is disposed to move very slowly and cautiously in laying any sweeping prohibitions on private enterprise, either newspaper or commercial.

FEAR JAP SUBMARINES NOW OPERATING IN BALTIC.

Stockholm, April 22.—It is reported in responsible quarters that certain strange crafts, said to be Japanese submarines, are hovering on the east coast of Sweden.

They were last seen off the fortified harbor of Farosun, in the island of Gotland, in the center of the Baltic sea.

It is reported that the St. Petersburg authorities have been advised of the matter and are alarmed for the safety of the Baltic fleet.

No Overcrowding at St. Louis.

Ample Accommodations at Reasonable Rates.

The alarming and altogether erroneous reports which have been circulated from time to time regarding the probable overcrowding of visitors to the Exposition and the lack of accommodations may be entirely discarded, as the arrangements which have been made in the Cascade City are such as to provide good accommodations and entertainment for all who come.

Chief among the prominent hostelries which have opened their hospitable doors is The Inside Inn, situated actually within the grounds of the Exposition itself and erected under the supervision of the World's Fair management. It is three stories in height, is 400 feet wide, 800 feet long and contains 2,257 rooms in addition to its parlors and waiting rooms and a dining room and restaurant, seating 2,500. The Inside Inn is under the direct management of Mr. E. M. Statler, the well known caterer of Buffalo, who maintains a high class of uniform cuisine and service for every one of his guests.

The Inside Inn is run on both the European and American plans at rates ranging from $1.50 to $5.50 per day, European, and from $3.00 to $7.00, American, including admission in both classes. The range of prices being solely controlled by the size and location of the rooms.

The advantages of a large, comfortable and thoroughly equipped, homelike hotel right inside the grounds will at once be obvious to all who remember the long, wearisome journeys often entailed, both at the World's Fair in Chicago and at Buffalo, by those who lived some distance away from the Exposition. No admission fee other than the first one is needed, visitors being within the precincts of the Exposition all the time. They thus save all loss of time, expenses of street cars, etc., and are able to devote the whole of their time to the pleasures and enjoyments of the Exposition.

Reservations may be made for any date and full details regarding the many advantages of The Inside Inn may be obtained by addressing a postal card to The Inside Inn, Administration Bldg., World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis.

DR. NICHOLSON FOR PRESIDENT

Georgia Doctors Also Name Atlanta for Next Convention.

Association Recommends Boards of Health for Every County in the State and Gives Notice of Its Desire To Enter National Body.

By E. C. Bruffey.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—The Medical Association of Georgia will hold its fifty-sixth annual session in Atlanta next April and unless interest in the organization diminishes within the year, the meeting will be one of the most important and entertaining, as well as probably the most generally attended, since the formation of the association.

Just before adjournment today the association elected officers for the year and selected the place of meeting for the year 1905. The officers elected were:

President, Dr. William Perrin Nicolson, Atlanta.

First vice president, Dr. M. A. Clark, Atlanta.

Second vice president, Dr. W. Z. Holliday, Augusta.

Member of the board censors, Dr. T. E. Oertel, Augusta.

Representative to the American Medical Association, Dr. J. B. Morgan, Augusta.

Immediately after the association was convened this morning the address of Dr. McCormick, of Illinois, yesterday, touching for the formation of the medical associations throughout the country, whether the organization be by city, county or state was brought to the front. Instantly the discussion became animated, a few of the members present only opposing the plans suggested.

The formation of boards of health in every county in the state was presented and a committee, composed of Drs. Hicks, West, Thrash, Stack, Ellis, Elder, Mack, Noble, Kline, McRae, Williams, Clark and Westmoreland, retired to give the papers and the discussion a consideration. The committee, upon retiring, indorsed the county boards of health and expressed itself as being emphatically in favor of any movement that might in any way promote the health of the section or in any manner whatsoever enhance the good health of a locality.

The association, while it favored the formation of the national medical association, suggested that the constitution of the state association would preevnt its entry into the national association without first changing the constitution of the state association. This, the committee declared, could not be done without the presentation of a year's notice. That notice was prepared and is now in the hands of the secretary, from whom it will come during the fifty-sixth annual session in Atlanta next year.

COMMONS PASS LABOR BILL.

Winston Churchill Forgot Speech While Supporting Measure.

London, April 22.—The house of commons today passed the second reading by 238 to 199 votes of the trades union bill legalizing the peaceful picketing and amending the law of conspiracy in connection with trade disputes and protecting trades union funds against legal process for damages caused by the action of members of such unions. The bill is the outcome of the recent judgment of the court in the Taffvale railway case, which, with the railway men's union, was mulcted in heavy damages for picketing and interfering with non-unionists.

Premier Balfour, in opposing the bill, said it would not be made a matter for a party question. Personally he was opposed to the bill, which would give trades unions a privileged position not enjoyed by any other body of men. He feared that the bill, as at present framed, might seriously interfere with other classes of the community.

Winston Spencer Churchill spoke in favor of the measure, but toward the close he suddenly lost the thread of his argument and after a pause of some moments, during which he thrice essayed to resume, Mr. Churchill sat down in some confusion without finishing and amid sympathetic cheers.

Macon, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—Frank Mozeley died at his residence in Belleview today at the age of 53 years. He was a member of the Macon police force for a number of years and at one time a United States deputy marshal.

Stenographers Forming Union.

New York, April 22.—Stenographers and typewriters here are taking up in earnest the formation of a union. Two or three meetings have already been held and at the next one officers will be elected for local No. 1. There are about 45,000 stenographers, male and female, in New York and if they should become thoroughly organized they might play an important part in the conduct of business.

Schley Is a Bankrupt.

Savannah, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—John Sullivan Schley, an attorney of Savannah and a member of one of the most prominent families in the state, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, showing assets of $40,000 and liabilities of $59,817.

SHORT ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

ON THE CHARGE OF HAVING INsulted a young lady Thursday night, Ed Hughes, a young white man, was yesterday afternoon fined $15.75 by Recorder Nash Broyles. The evidence showed that Hughes had addressed some remark to the young lady and was trying to catch hold of her, but that she ran and got out of his way. The affair occurred on Decatur street and Hughes was arrested by Policeman Hood. The defendant stated to the court that he intended no insult to the young lady, but had merely mistaken her for another woman. The recorder advised him not to make such mistakes.

R. L. EVANS, A BLACKSMITH, DIED yesterday morning at his residence, 192 Haynes street. He had been ill for the past year of tuberculosis. The body will be taken to Temple, Ga., this morning at 6:10 o'clock for interment. Funeral services will be conducted there.

MISS DELIA SAPPINGTON, 16 years of age, of Barnesville, died suddenly yesterday at the residence of her uncle, Henry W. Smith, 58 West Georgia avenue. The young lady had come to Atlanta for treatment. The body was taken yesterday afternoon to Barnesville for interment. Funeral services will be conducted there today.

THE RUMMAGE SALE, CONDUCTED by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Episcopal diocesan missions, began yesterday at the Emery-Steiner building, on Whitehall street viaduct. It will continue today and Monday.

THE FUNERAL OF WILLIAM C. KERSHAW, 43 years of age, who died Thursday afternoon at his residence on the McDonough road, will occur tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock at the residence. The interment will be in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Kershaw had held a responsible position with the S. S. S. company for the past nineteen years and was well known. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Kershaw, and the following children: W. H. Kershaw, J. K. Kershaw, Mrs. A. M. Hairston, Mrs. W. A. Steerman, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. H. Pitman, of Valdosta.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER THE body of Captain E. H. Bagnall were conducted yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock at the residence of Captain Bagnall's daughter, Mrs. C. G. Hartsfield, 72 Milledge avenue. The body will be taken to Kingston this morning for interment. Captain Bagnall died Thursday night.

THE "OLD MAIDS' SOCIETY," A play, will be given by the degree of Pocahontas, Improved Order of Red Men, on Monday night at the Red Men's wigwam on Central avenue. The performance will be participated in by fifteen or twenty young ladies, among the best amateurs in the city. The entertainment is expected to prove one of the best of its kind ever given in Atlanta and is being anticipated with much pleasure by all of those interested. A small admission fee will be charged.

W. C. WILLIAMS, A WHITE MAN, was arrested yesterday by Detectives White and Simpson on a warrant from Philadelphia, charging cheating and swindling. Williams was arrested at the Fulton bag and cotton mills, where he was installing some machinery, he being an expert machinist. He was located by Officer Nolan, of Philadelphia, who, it is understood, has been on his trail for some time. Officer Nolan left Atlanta with his prisoner last night at midnight for Philadelphia. Williams is accused of having obtained money on a deed that had been signed by a woman on the representation that she was the wife of Williams.

THE MEMBERS OF THE MICHIGAN Andersonville Monument Commission will spend May 31 in Atlanta. Governor Bliss and about 150 prominent citizens of Michigan will be in the party, which will be quartered at the Piedmont. A letter received in Atlanta yesterday stated that the party was looking forward to their visit to Atlanta with much interest. Some special courtesies will be shown Governor Bliss and party while here.

THE NEW ENGLAND MEMBERS OF the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association, who will have a banquet in Boston, Mass., on May 3, have invited Will V. Zimmer, of Atlanta, to deliver an address before them. This is a high honor to southern hotel men, as the New England hotel keepers are regarded as the best in the land.

H. F. GARRETT, OF ATLANTA, RECeived a telephone message last night to come to Columbus at once, as it is feared his brother, George W. Garrett, who was hurt in a railroad accident here a day or two ago, cannot recover. In addition to painful cuts, it now appears that he has sustained internal injuries, and his condition is extremely serious.

INTERESTING EXERCISES WILL be held Sunday at the Soldiers' home in memory of General John B. Gordon and D. P. White. An all-day singing has been arranged and dinner will be served on the grounds. A large attendance from the city is expected.

SENATOR MORGAN RESENTED SNUB

Gorman Named in Place of Alabama Senator.

Marylander Quickly Refused Place, Saying It Should Go to Senator Morgan, but He Refused To Serve Under the Circumstances.

Washington, April 22.—The general deficiency appropriation bill occupied the major portion of the senate's time today, but before it was taken up Mr. Gallinger spoke at some length on the tariff policy of the republican party, saying the tariff would be an issue in 1904. While the reading of the deficiency bill was in progress Mr. Cullom delivered a speech on the house Chinese exclusion rider. He expressed the opinion that there should be explicit legislation, reenacting legislation exclusion laws.

During the day the attention of the senate was brought to the amendment of the house to the bill for the government of the canal zone and some embarrassment was created by naming Mr. Gorman as democratic conferee on behalf of the senate in place of Mr. Morgan, who is the senior democratic member of the committee on interocean canals, with the result that both senators declined to serve.

Mr. Gorman, in declining to serve, asked that Mr. Morgan be named in his place.

Mr. Morgan was on his feet at once.

"I respectfully decline to serve on that conference committee," he began. "I bow with deep humility to the breach of the rule and accept the discourtesy shown to me. I certainly will not consent to serve on the conference committee under the circumstances."

Senator Frye, in the chair, said he followed the usual custom of appointing the conferees recommended by the senator in charge of the bill.

The senate adjourned until tomorrow.

HENRY ISELIN IN PARIS JAIL

Prominent American Held by French Court.

Paris, April 22.—The American embassy is making urgent representations to secure the release of Henry Iselin, a prominent American living here and highly connected in New York.

Mr. Iselin is director of a financial institution called the Societe Generale de Banque. He is detained pending an investigation into the alleged relations of his bank with the defunct Banque Centrale de Credit Mobolieret Industriel. The recent failure of the latter institution and the flight of its director agitated local financial circles.

The French authorities have arrested a number of officers of the failed bank and have taken possession of its books. They maintain that the books showed that it had relations with the Societe Generale de Bank, of which Mr. Iselin is director. Thereupon Judge Berr ordered the detention of Mr. Iselin. Friends of the latter claim his detention in the absence of specific charge is an outrage.

Mr. Iselin's detention has been accompanied by much harshness, including stripping him while his measurements were taken.

Strong representations have been made to Foreign Minister Delcasse and this afternoon to the procurator general of the republic.

Mrs. Weldon's Mail.

(S. Jennie Smith in Sunday School Times.)

The Weldons lived in the country, and, of course, the letter man did not go around to the houses with mail, as is done in the city. The mail came to the store in the village, about 3 miles away, and had to be brought up to the houses by the people themselves. In the Weldons' neighborhood, anybody who went to the store brought up mail that happened to come in for any of the rest, as well as their own; so most of them had boxes put on their gate posts for the letters or papers to be dropped in. The Weldons had one by their front gate.

One morning, when Johnny was going out to get the milk from the milkman, his mother said to him: "See if there is anything in the letter box, dear."

In a few minutes Johnny came in laughing.

"Was there anything?" inquired his mother.

"Yes, ma'am. Come out and look at the queer mail we have this morning."

Mrs. Weldon followed the boy to the gate, and what do you think she saw?

That box was packed full of twigs and other stuff that birds use in building nests, and on a tree near by sat a little brown wren, scolding in her own bird language as hard as she could because the Weldons were by her nest.

"Well, birdie, I'm sorry to destroy your home," Mrs. Weldon said, "but we must have the box for our mail." And she took all the stuff out and threw it away.

About an hour afterwards, when Mrs. Weldon happened to go to the front gate she found a nest in that box again. The nest was all finished, and the hole where the mail went in was stuffed so full of twigs that nothing larger than the wren could enter.

On a tree near by sat that little wren, and not much farther off sat another wren that was probably her mate. Both of them looked sharply at Mrs. Weldon, as much as to say: "What are you going to do about it now?"

"O well, keep your nest, Mr. and Mrs. Wren," the lady said. "You deserve to stay for working so hard. We shall have to make some other way about the mail."

Laborers of the Andes.

The majority of the laborers in the mountains of Peru are Cholos, or Indians born in the Sierra. They are found incapable of doing efficient work on the coasts or in the warmer altitudes without a long course of acclimatization. If gangs of these Cholos have for special purposes been taken down suddenly from the Sierra to work at altitudes of from 2,000 to 5,000 feet, sickness and fever have resulted from the change.

THEATERS.

The Bijou.

A matinee this afternoon and a final performance tonight will conclude the engagement of "A Ragged Hero" at the Bijou. The attendance this week has been up to the usual standard at this theater and the performance has given general satisfaction.

"A Ragged Hero" tells an absorbing story of love and life in the rural districts of New England in which the heroic deeds are not confined to the highly born, but rather to the lowly. The play is replete with stirring situations that are appropriately framed in a scenic setting of unusual completeness.

The Bijou Opera Company will be the attraction at the Bijou next week, and this means one of the biggest bargains of the entire seaon of things theatrical is about ready to be offered to theatergoers. This company is under the Wells-Dunne-Harlan Company management and was recently organized and rehearsed by Otis Harlan, whose ability as a stage manager is thoroughly known here. The company will sing "The Ameer" here, and in selecting this opera for the introduction of the new organization Mr. Wells and Mr. Harlan simply make the players show their best ability and talent to start with.

There are forty operatic artists in the organization and the principal parts are assigned in first rate style. The production will be the original as used by Frank Daniels when that star scored such a great hit with "The Ameer."

Ancient Worship of Animals.

The figures of the gods in ancient Eygpt were represented on the monuments for ages in animal form. The organization of the local population ran on totem lines. Each city had different beast gods. In the royal genealogies beasts are named as ancestors, showing that the early Egyptians actually considered themselves descendants of animals. The primitive element in the early Greek religion has been preserved in the "sacred chapters," fragments of which have been given us by Herodotus, Pausanias and others, proving that the oldest images of the Grecian gods were represented in animal form and that the different royal houses claimed descent from animals, as do the savages of America and Australia. Mr. J. McLennan in his papers on "The Worship of Plants and Animals" calls our attention to many evidences that the early Romans as well as the Greeks worshiped totems.

"That may be," answered he, "but the American people are mighty partial to bonds."

BITTER ROAST FOR ROOSEVELT

Kitchin, of North Carolina, Criticises President.

Claims Roosevelt Advocated Lynching for Horse Thieves—Quoted from Roosevelt's Writings To Show His Contempt for Congress.

Washington, April 22.—President Roosevelt was assailed bitterly in the house today by Claude Kitchin, of North Carolina, who included in his castigation General Grosvenor, whom he charged with having humiliated Theodore Roosevelt, the vice presidential candidate, whom in a recent speech in the house he had glorified as the worthy successor of McKinley, forgetting that during McKinley's last campaign as a contributor to The New York Journal in signed articles he (Grosvenor) had referred to the president, then governor of New York, "as a brilliant, erratic and curious sort of a man."

Mr. Kitchin charged that Mr. Roosevelt as candidate for vice president was distasteful to Mr. McKinley, and challenged Mr. Grosvenor to deny it, as well as the statement that Mr. Roosevelt as vice president was humiliated by the friends of McKinley including General Grosvenor himself.

"Rnd yet," he said, "you men stand here and gulp down everything Roosevelt says and not one of you dare raise his hand in memory of William McKinley." McKinley had a right to think what Roosevelt would be distasteful to him.

"Contemplate," he said, "the amazing spectacle of any republican in the United States being humiliated by General Grosvenor and contemplate this same man marshalling under his banner the hosts of republicans with Grosvenor the chief bugle blower."

To say that Roosevelt filled McKinley's place, he declared, was a desecration of McKinley's name. It was, he said, a case of "the ant hill taking the place of mountains; the owl's screech taking the place of the tombs symphonies; the minnow taking the place of the whale."

Attack of Jefferson Davis.

The people of the south, he said, knew that twenty-five years after Appomattox Roosevelt in one of his publications had declared that until out of the dictionary was stricken the word treason, Jefferson Davis would be an arch traitor. That, he said, was a stroke at the whole south and the confederate soldiers. He also referred to another publication of Mr. Roosevelt's in which he is quoted as saying that throughout southern character, there ran a streak of coarse and brutal barbarism. He compared "the kind, loving words of McKinley" in an address to confederate veterans to "the insulting words of Roosevelt." He said that in one of his books President Roosevelt "deliberately teaches and advocates lynchings for the stealing of a rag tail Texas pony. He asked if that book did not have something to do with stimulating "the great people of the north to lawlessness."

The people of the south, he said, condemn lynching for all crimes because the hand of civilization and Christianity had been lifted against it. No man in the world ever would condone outrages against women, "and yet we don't preach lynching or teach it, but knowing the weakness of human nature, mobs cannot be controlled in sparsely settled communities where we cannot get sufficient police force on the spot at once." He believed that every democrat and republican in the country would pause in shame that the president of the United States had scattered books advocating lynch law.

Congress "Herd of Cattle."

Reading from a speech made by Mr. Roosevelt, governor of New York, he declared Mr. Roosevelt had characterized the congress of the United States as a "herd of cattle." Laughter on the democratic side followed. "The humiliating spectacle," he continued, "is that since he has been president of the United States he has treated this republican house as a herd of cattle and the most humiliating thing about it was that the republicans allowed the president to treat them as cattle and laid down before him in his green pastures." He provoked laughter when he said the president looked upon congress "as his great ranch" with the republicans as his "round ups." Speaking deliberately, he declared that any man who had such profound contempt for the legislative branch of the government was unfit to be its executive head and was a dangerous man.

He closed by quoting from "American Ideals," in which Mr. Roosevelt, he alleged, had denounced General Grosvenor by names "as a champion of foul government and dishonest politics." Then turning to General Grosvenor he added:

"Read that and then read your recent speech defending the president and tell the house that you feel like thirty cents."

General Grosvenor admitted that four years ago he opposed the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for vice president, but said Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign had conducted himself in a dignified manner and had won the confidence and esteem of the people by his acts from the time he was elected to preside over the senate, and that he reached the supreme heights when he declared at Buffalo that he would carry out the policies of Mr. McKinley.

Since then the president had grown to be one of the great men of the country. The president, he said, was more dangerous to the democratic party than any other man today. The democrats in New York, he said, had launched a candidate for president who didn't know where he stood, on his head or his heels.

Preceding this episode, the house debated the bill to create a commission to investigate the merchant marine, but took no action on it.

The house adjourned until tomorrow.

THE TRAINED NURSE

HER STRENGTH SOMETIMES TAXED BEYOND LIMIT.

A Graduate of the New York Training School Tells How She Recuperates After Heavy Strain.

The trained nurse plays a very important part in the modern treatment of disease greatly to the relief of both doctor and patient. Because she is well disciplined she is able to perform difficult service and to endure fatigue in a manner that excites admiration and wonder.

She is human, however, and in trying cases the demands upon her strength prove excessive. She fulfills her duty nobly to the last moment, but, as soon as she is relieved she is compelled to build up her own weakened powers. She naturally wants the remedy that will restore her efficiency in the shortest possible time, and as her knowledge of medicines is wide, her choice is likely to be a sensible one and a remarkably good guide for everybody else.

Every word of the following careful statement of Mrs. Jessie M. F. Cummings, of 61 Whitmore street, Hartford, Conn., a graduate of the New York Training School for Nurses, is entitled to the weight which attaches to the utterance of an expert:

"Several months ago," said Mrs Cummings recently, "I was completely worn out as the result of a very serious and trying case I had attended. I needed a tonic, and so I got six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and took them faithfully. I obtained the good from them I expected to, and I can say with truth and pleasure that the remedy is a splendid tonic for woman's nerves."

The soundness of Mrs. Cummings' opinion is confirmed by the experience of numerous sufferers from nervous disorders of every kind and degree, from simple debility to partial paralysis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured obstinate cases of neuralgia, prostration, sciatica and St. Vitus' dance; they have even conquered the most frightful of nervous diseases, locomotor ataxia, after the patient had been reduced to a state of helplessness and had been told to prepare for death.

They check waste and begin to minister a fresh and lasting vitality at once. They are sold by all druggists throughout the world. A booklet giving information of great value in the treatment of nervous diseases will be sent free on application to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Spencer and Music.

Herbert Spencer cultivated what he called the "receptive sense" in respect to music and was wont to speak with more than a little bitterness of the general desire to be a performer. One performer who had been chosen to play Beethoven for him was thunderstruck on arrival at Mr. Spencer's residence at being asked to render an extract from one of Sullivan's operas. Light music had a charm for the philosopher which light literature never had.

CITY OFFICIALS TO GO VISITING

Garbage Destructors in Other Cities To Be Inspected.

The destruction of garbage in other cities of the United States will be investigated by Chief City Engineer R. M. Clayton and Dr. C. F. Benson, president of the board of health. This was decided upon during the meeting of council's finance committee, of which Alderman H. T. Inman is chairman, during the session of yesterday afternoon.

The committee of two will first visit Johnstown, Pa., where a plant of the Decarie Manufacturing Company is in operation, will go from there to Minneapolis, and will probably terminate the tour at Vincennes. The committee is authorized, however, to remain away as long as it choses and to go anywhere in the country in an effort to become completely satisfied as to what course Atlanta should pursue.

The finance committee met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of deciding how to construct a 200-ton Decarie crematory, which will cost $31,500, with an appropriation of $9,000. It was thought that the committee would simply make an additional appropriation to the board of health for the purpose of placing that body in a position to close the contract.

Members of the board of health, officials of the city and members of the committee were heard from regarding the destruction of garbage in Atlanta. The question was fully discussed and much information regarding the intentions for the future destruction of garbage and regarding what the members of the board of health believed about the problem was obtained by the finance committee.

It was on motion of Councilman Peters, who accepted an amendment by Mayor Pro Tem. Longino, that the finance committee decided to send the two city officials as an investigating committee before taking further action regarding the matter.

The chairman of the finance committee told the touring committee that if it proved possible to return to Atlanta before the next session of the general council the finance committee would hold another meeting. Chief Engineer Clayton stated that it would not be impossible to return to Atlanta within a week and it was therefore virtually agreed that Mayor Howell will be requested to assemble the general council in special session as soon as the committee is ready to make its report.

CONGRESSMAN BELL MADE FRIENDS IN UNIQUE WAY

While Canvassing the Ninth District for Atlanta Business Firms, He Laid Foundation for His Subsequent Political Victory.

Gainesville, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—Thomas Marion Bell, who has defeated Congressman Carter Tate for congress in the ninth district, was born in a log cabin at the foot of Yonah mountain, in White county, Georgia, March 17, 1861, and is a little over forty-three years of age.

His father was the late Judge W. B. Bell, for many years ordinary of White county, and his mother having died only last year. He has five brothers, Mark B., Frank M., Oliver, Augustus B. and P. Lester Bell, and five sisters, Mrs. Carrie Jarrard, of White county; Mrs. Kate Kenimer, of White county; Mrs. W. A. Gilmer, of Gainesville; Mrs. George S. Kytle, of White county, and Mrs. Will F. Worley, of Gainesville.

On April 2, 1885, Mr. Bell was married to Miss Ella Winburn, daughter of Judge J. B. M. Winburn, for many years postmaster at Gainesville, and for four years ordinary of Hall county. Since his marriage Mr. Bell has made Gainesville his home. He began his business career as a traveling salesman for R. Palmour, of Gainesville, later going with Dr. John B. Daniel, of Atlanta, and with Gershon Bros., also of Atlanta. It was while he was on the road that Mr. Bell gained an extensive acquaintance, and, being affable and clever, he won many friends who were his loyal and enthusiastic supporters in the campaign just closed, which resulted in his nomination for congress.

Entered Politics in 1889.

Mr. Bell's first entry into politics was when he ran for clerk of Hall superior court in 1898, when he was overwhelmingly nominated over an influential citizen, W. D. Whelchel. He was again nominated, defeating J. S. Allen, a strong opponent, in 1900, and again in 1902 won over the same opponent. During each of his campaigns, he went over the county, making speeches, accompanied by a band.

Mr. Bell is a ready speaker, not to say eloquent, but with an easy manner, sincere in what he says, and with such earnestness that he never fails to impress his hearers. He has, since his entry into the campaign, made an average of two speeches a day. He confined his campaign to the lower counties of the district, and he only lost three of the eleven counties he canvassed. There were six counties in the district he never went into at all for lack of time before the primary.

Bell's Friends Celebrate.

Gainesville, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—The friends of Hon. Thomas M. Bell had a great jubilation here tonight. Huge bonfies lighted the heavens and with bands playing and enthusiastic shouting and orators speaking a dramatic scene was presented. After the speaking, which occurred in the public square, a procession was formed which marched over the city and the demonstration ended with a love feast of Mr. Bell's friends and supporters. The Norcross, Alpharetta and Gainesville bands furnished the music and excursions were run to Gainesville over the railroads. The opening address was made by Hon. R. D. Mitchell, president of the Bell Club. Five minute speeches were then made by F. M. Johnson, B. G. Parks, W. B. Sloan, B. P. Galliard, Hubert Estes and others. Mr. Bell responded, thanking his friends for their loyal support and pledging his best efforts in congress to the people of the ninth district.

KHORASSAN TEMPLE FORMED.

Organization Perfected Last Night. Hon. E. V. Carter Is Royal Vizier.

Formal organization of the local temple, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, was perfected last night at an enthusiastic meeting of Pythians held in Castle hall, in the Kiser building. Hon. E. V. Carter, the well-known and popular seventh ward councilman, was chosen to head the new temple, with the title of royal vizier.

The following is a complete list of officers elected: Royal princes, W. R. Hesn, Hiram L. Gardner, S. C. Will and James A. Miller; royal vizier, E. V. Carter; grand emir, F. Roland Aiston; shelk, Dr. William C. Warren; mahedi, George F. Eubanks; makanna, W. M. Smith; joc, T. W. Clanton; master of ceremonies, Alonzo J. Johnson; secretary, W. T. Winn; treasurer, Henry B. Kennedy; satrap, Dr. W. C. Bryant; sahib, B. F. Darden; imperial nawab, W. R. Heston.

Application for a charter will be made at once, and it is expected that the temple will be instituted by the end of the next three weeks. John H. Holmes, of St. Louis, imperial prince of the order, will be invited to attend the institution. Three Arabic names were last night selected by the temple, from which the name of the organization will be chosen by the imperial prince, the names being Kibia, Wahhab and Mamun.

MARRIED UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

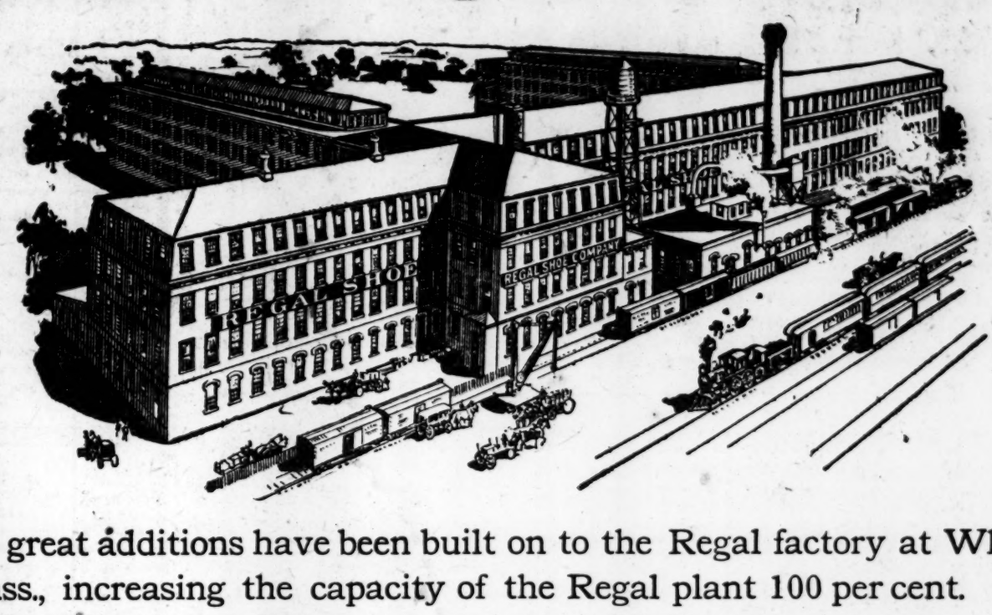

Runaway Couple "Cross the River" Very Successfully.

Columbus, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—Ed Willingham and Miss Bertha Butler have just been married under difficulties. There being parental objection, they decided to go quietly to Alabama and be wedded. They were crossing the Chattahoochee river, in a batteau when they were spied by the girl's father, who gave chase. Arriving in Phenix City, they secured a hack, made a dash down through Girard, came back to the Georgia side over the lower bride and were married by Justice Leonard before Mr. Butler could arrive.

Carl Olanson Killed by Julius.

Newport News, Va., April 22.—Carl Olanson, a seaman, was stabbed and killed by Allein Julius, another sailor, in a fight on board the schooner Massasoit, lying in harbor here, today.

Regal Output Doubled

TWO great additions have been built on to the Regal factory at Whitman, Mass., increasing the capacity of the Regal plant 100 per cent.

With fifteen new Regal stores opening this Spring, and more coming, and the rest of the seventy-two Regal stores doing double business,—this increase of factory capacity became necessary in order to take care of demands already existing.

It's all a part of the original Regal program—to manufacture the very best shoes that the very best leather and the highest grade of skilled workmanship could produce; to sell them direct to the wearer—instead of through leather-dealers, wholesalers and retailers—at the wholesale price; and to probe every single claim we make.

We have probed that "Tannery to Wearer" is more than a familiar sentence—a short-cut system that enables us to sell you direct, at $3.50, the equal of any shoe sold anywhere at any price. We have probed by the well-known "Valvic Test" in Regal windows that our Valvic Calfskin is exactly what we claim it to be—porous but waterproof—clean, light, cool and comfortable. We have probed that only good old-fashioned oak-tanned leather is used in Regal soles by the "Window of the Sole"—a removable label on every Regal shoe that discloses a section of clean, close-fibred, unblackened, oak-tanned leather. We have probed by publicly dissecting thousands of shoes with the famous Regal buzz-saw that Regal vamps are whole, not patched at the toe, that Regal heel-stiffenings, toe-boxes and inner soles are solid sole leather, and that every last bit of Regal material is the best that can be put into shoes.

The largest retail shoe business in the world,—built up on a foundation o one price, one profit, honest material and first-class workmanship.

GEORGIA DAMES UNVEIL TABLET

Ceremony Took Place Yesterday at Fort Oglethorpe.

Brunswick, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—The Georgia Colonial Dames who are holding their annual meeting at Savannah, came over today and left immediately for Frederica, where the large Oglethorpe bronze tablet was unveiled at Fort Oglethorpe. The ceremonies were very impressive and were participated in by a large number of prominent Georgians. The unveiling address was made by Hon. Pleasant A. Stovall, of Savannah. Atlanta was represented by Mrs. F. H. Orme and Mrs. Joseph Lamar. Mrs. Samuel Spencer, who is a member of the dames, was also present, as were many Augusta, Macon, Savannah and Brunswick people. The exercises were begun by a beautiful address by Mrs. J. J. Wilder, of Savannah, president of the Georgia Colonial Dames. The pretty tablet is inscribed as follows:

This remnant is all
That time has spared of the
Citadel of the town of Frederica
Built by
GENERAL OGLETHORPE,
As an outpost against the Spaniards of Florida. Preserved by the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames of America, 1904.

TO MAKE FLAGS OBJECT LESSON

Interesting Features of Programme for Coming Memorial Day.

"Our Confederate Flags" is the subject that will be deal with on the occasion of the Memorial day exercises to be held in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol on Tuesday morning next, April 26, at 10 o'clock.

There will be no formal addresses on this occasion, but several brief talks on the foregoing subject will be made by those well able to deal with it. Being out of the usual line the subject has awakened much interest. Hon. James L. Mayson, whose address on the occasion of Lee's birthday, charmed his hearers, will speak on "Our Confederate Flags." Three flags will be presented, these being the Gordon memorial flag made by Mrs. Robson, of Kirkwood, from the ribbons taken from the floral tributes to the beloved hero of the confederacy, the flag of Atlanta Camp No. 159 and the flag of the Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Following the story of these flags several veterans will be asked to speak of their regimental flags and it is hoped to be able to present these battle-worn relics of a noble and notable past. Some of these flags are in Atlanta and it is hoped the Eighth and Third Georgia flags will be sent from Rome and Augusta for the occasion.

Thus the confederate flag will be made an object lesson on this occasion which will prove an interesting one for both young and old.

Confederate crosses of honor will be presented to many veterans who have established their claim to them. Colonel William A. Wright will preside and will introduce the speakers.

Mrs. W. S. Yeates, chairman of the music committee for the Atlanta chapter, has secured the assistance of the Turn Verein chorus, conducted by Mr. O'Donnelly, and this splendid chorus of male voices will add much to the occasion.

The programme for the occasion will be as follows:

Invocation, Rev. T. P. Cleveland.
Introductory remarks, Colonel W. H. Wright.
Chopin's funeral march, Turn Verein chorus.
"Our Confederate Flags," Hon. James L. Mayson.
Confederate camp songs, Turn Verein chorus.
"Forty-second Georgia Flag," Judge W. L. Calhoun.
"Thirty-third Virginia Flag," Captain C. S. Arnall.
Music, selected, Turn Verein chorus.
"Fourth Georgia Flag," Captain C. T. Furlow.
"Pilgrim's Chorus," Turn Verein chorus.
Presentation of crosses of honor, Miss Allce Baxter, president Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

DR. CAVE'S SERMONS.

Prominent Minister is Conducting Meetings at the West End Christian Church.

Rev. Robert Lord Cave, of Clarksville, Tenn., who is conducting a series of meetings at the West End Christian church, delivered an interesting sermon last night on "The Two Covenants."

Mr. Cave is attracting large congregations to the West End Christian church, and the meetings are proving successful in every way.

Last night he spoke in part as follows:

"In man's primeval abode reigned peace, pure and undisturbed—the peace of God that passeth all understanding. The law of the Father was the will of His children, and they walked and talked with Him as friend with friend. No jarring note of discord was there, no pang of pain, no sob of sorrow; for sin and death were yet unborn, and perfect love did cast out fear.

"Into that fair home of filial obedience and fatherly benediction, the arch enemy of our race intruded his malignant presence. Man broke the faith with his God and brought on himself the direful consequences of transgression.

"But even in the dark, dread hour when the sentence of the Father was pronounced, the all-encircling gloom was broken by a single ray of heavenly light; the promise was given that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head; to strengthen and sustain the struggling hosts of humanity in the uneven conflict with sin and Satan. This precious prophecy was repeated through Abraham and himself selected as the father of the people from whom the seed should spring and through whom the promised blessings should be transmitted to all mankind. The covenant with Adam and Eve was renewed in Abraham and fulfilled in Jesus. In the twilight age of patriarchs, man saw but dimly the fruition of his cherished hopes and the achievement of the ends of his being; in the moonlight of the law and the prophets, 'the still, small voice' of God awakened sleeping desires and moved to deeds more noble; but only in the fulness of time did the sun of righteousness rise with healing in His wings to cure the diseases of humanity and save His people from their sins.

"Christ came not to declare a truce between man and Satan, but to provide a way by which man might win in the conflict; not to remove temptation to sin, but give to man strength to resist; not to make man perfect, but to implant in him the hope of perfection and afford him a perfect example; not to appease the wrath of an angry father, but to reveal His love unto the world; not to reconcile God to man, but man to God, to himself and to his brother, by drawing him unto the magnet of infinite wisdom and power, the Son of God, the Son of Man, who was 'the seed of the woman,' and yet in whom dwelt all the fulness of the Godhead bodily. The hope of the world is in the divine origin of man and the human birth of Christ, in the universal Fatherhood of God, and brotherhood of man.

"But what of 'the law?' Says Paul, it was added because of transgression,' added to the Adamic-Abrahamic covenant, to typify by sacrifice and service symbolic, by priest and prophet, and king, the coming of Him who was to be all in one and to offer the only perfect sacrifice, render the only acceptable service. 'The law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ. . . . But after that the faith is come we are no longer under a schoolmaster.'

"The mercies of God to the children of Israel and the statutes of the Mosaic law were to be remembered by feasts and holidays, tokens upon the hand, frontlets pasted between the eyes, and fringes, ribbons and other phylacteries upon the garments: but of the new covenant God said: 'I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to Me a people.' Christianity is positive, spiritual, consisting not in restraining commandments graven upon tables of stone, but in uplifting principles written on the hearts of men. It is a religion of love, not fear; of life, not death.

"As the great High Priest of humanity, Jesus offered Himself, the only availing sacrifice, for the sins of men. He 'nailed the law to the cross' with Himself and instituted in its stead the glorious gospel of grace. He fulfilled the old covenant whose provisions were national and temporary, and gave to the world the New Testament in His blood, whose atoning power all may feel forevermore. In His thoughts and words and deeds He afforded the perfect revelation of the Father, the personification of duty, the embodiment of self-sacrifice, the very apotheosis of love, divine, unspeakable!

"We need by faith today to transport ourselves and the world to the Mount of Transfiguration, and to see His glory, 'the glory as of the only begotten of the Father;' to recall again the impetuous suggestion of Peter to erect a tabernacle each to Moses and Elijah and Christ, and hear through the rifted clouds the abiding word of the living God: 'This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased: Hear ye Him.' The law and the prophets served God's purpose in them to foreshadow and foretell the Christ. But in these last days He hath spoken unto us by His Son, and 'thanks be to God that giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.'"

Death of Famous "Con;; Man.

New York, April 22.—Francis Coleman, better known as "Colonel," and until ten years ago regarded as one of the shrewdest "confidence" men in the world, is dead in Bellevue hospital from pneumonia. He was penniless. Coleman, who was highly educated, began to achieve notoriety thirty-five years ago when he followed a well known circus. He became known as a most fastidious dresser and seldom wore the same suit of clothing more than a few days. In the early eighties he went to Europe, remained several years and was accused of participating in many swindles.

OGDEN'S PARTY PASSES THROUGH

Educators and Philanthropists Hurry on to Tuskegee.

Members of Party Will Study Conditions in the South and Spend a Million Dollars Along Lines of Education.

Leaving little or no room for dispute, the special train that passed through Atlanta last night on its way to Tuskegee was the finest in point of equipment and the most elegant in appointments of any that has ever rolled this way. The party officially known as the Hampton-Birmingham party, but generally called the Robert Ogden party, was composed of prominent educators and philanthropists of the north on their way south to study the conditions in this section and spend the sum of a million dollars along the lines of education.

During the half hour the train stood in the car shed many of the party strolled up and down the platforms, while others hurried up to Whitehall street for a glimpse of the business district. District Passenger Agent J. C. Beam, Jr., brought the party down over the Southern, meeting the special train at Charlotte. From Atlanta the special train of Pullmans was taken to Tuskegee over the Atlanta and West Point, President Wickersham and General Passenger Agent Billups, of that road, meeting Mr. Ogden and party on their arrival.

Mr. Ogden, while admitting that he had nothing interesting to say in the way of an interview, said that he was very glad to visit the south again and see so many evidences of prosperity on every hand. The party yesterday visited Rock Hill, S. C., where the Winthrop Normal and Industrial college was visited. Today special exercises will be held at the Booker Washington school in honor of the visitors.

Electric lighting was supplied on the train from a dynamo in a Pennsylvania baggage car ahead. All the way through the appointments were perfect. Two dining cars, a club car, an observation car and seven state room Pullmans, with baths, barber shop, library, individual lavatories connecting with each state room and all of the other latest conveniences known to modern travel. The party will pass through Atlanta on its return to New York in about a week, but will pass through at night. A number of railroad men were down at the car shed last night inspecting the special.

Members of the Party.

The party included the following distinguished guests:

The Literary Digest

"ALL THE PERIODICALS IN ONE."

As the miner pans out the pure gold from the earth and gravel, so The Literary Digest extracts the real gold from over a thousand periodicals printed in all countries and languages. It enables you to sweep the entire field of thought and action as represented by periodicals that would cost many thousands of dollars if subscribed for separately. It sets before you all sides of questions under controversy, permitting you to form your own convictions; it acquaints you with the latest discoveries and inventions in science; it tells you all about the important incidents in the world of literature and art; it presents news and views on religion and theology, and tells you what is going on abroad. It perfectly meets the requirements of busy, wide-awake men and women, desirous of keeping well posted on current events.

Hon. HENRY T. RAINEY, U. S. Representative, says: "I have read 'The Literary Digest' for many years and keep in my library a complete file of the same. I think I have every copy of 'The Literary Digest' you have ever published except two or three. Your semi-annual indexes are invaluable. 'The Literary Digest' is the only publication I attempt to keep. It is printed in convenient form and does not take up too much space on the shelves of a library. For a busy man, I know of no publication so valuable as this. If a man read nothing else, he could keep well posted on current events and could keep fairly well up with the best thought of the world."

What Subscribers Are Saying About The Literary Digest

JUSTIN McCARTHY, the Famous Historian:
"It is original, thoroughly practical, especially qualified to be a valuable instructor to all who are occupied in the busy and exacting life of the present day."

HALL CAINE, Famous English Novelist:
"A non-partisan, unprejudiced presentation of the thought of the world."

DONALD G. MITCHELL ("Ike Marvel"), the Well-Known Author:
"Your paper is always read by me with great avidity. Your editor shows rare gumption in the choice of topics and material."

MAJOR GENERAL J. C. BRECKINRIDGE, Washington:
"No other paper gives the weekly status of everything from religion to politics more fully or intelligently than yours."

EDWIN MARKHAM, the Poet:
"The Literary Digest is a time-saver, money-saver, and a worry-saver. I know of nothing better of its kind in the periodical field, and I always recommend it to my friends."

REAR ADMIRAL FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON, United States Navy:
"I read The Literary Digest with a great deal of interest and satisfaction."

U. S. SENATOR WILLIAM P. FRYE:
"It affords immense assistance to the scholars of the country."

HON. EDWARD HOOS, ex-Mayor of Jersey City:
"It is the best and most unbiased journal published."

HON. S. W. McCALL, U. S. Representative:
"The Literary Digest is unsurpassed by any other publication of its kind."

FRANK H. RUSCOE, Ruscoe School of Commerce, New York:
"If I should decide to cut off every other publication, even including the daily papers, I should still send you your three dollars for The Literary Digest."

JUDGE A. H. DAILY, Brooklyn:
"The Literary Digest saves me time, brain fag, and my eyes have more rest."

REV. E. P. POWELL, In Unity, Chicago:
"The Literary Digest is an absolute necessity to those who would keep in line with progress of thought and achievement."

MOST REV. ARCHBISHOP JOHN R. KEANE, Dubuque, Ia.:
"A busy man needs some such codensation of the world's thinking and doing, and The Digest suits me very well."

WILLIS J. ABBOTT, Editor of "The Pilgrim," Battle Creek, Mich.:
"There is no publication, weekly or monthly, that interests me so much or is so helpful as The Literary Digest. I find it the most useful publication that comes to my home."

HON. JAMES K. JONES, United States Senator:
"I find it very valuable, enabling me to keep up with the current events without interfering with a large amount of detail work."

EDMUND C. STEDMAN, Poet, Banker, Critic:
"In this, my country home, it is the one weekly that cannot be spared. I rely upon it for my sure and quick knowledge of current scientific, literary and political movements . . . . . the best edited journal of its kind."

R. HEBER NEWTON, D. D., the Eminent Preacher:
"I always read it and look forward to it with an interest which is never disappointed."

W. H. P. FAUNCE, President Brown University:
"The Literary Digest has become simply indispensable to my keeping abreast of the world of thought and action. I do not know of any other publication that can take its place."

BISHOP F. D. HUNTINGTON (Protestant Episcopal):
"The Literary Digest keeps its dignity and purity, and seems never to fall below a high standard, as respects the manner and style of the articles."

VERY REV. THOS. J. SHAHAN, Catholic Univ. of America, Washington:
"I consider The Literary Digest a model of its kind, admirably edited. Just the periodical for the busy man who wishes to keep abreast of the times."

JUDGE ADDISON BROWN, New York:
"I find The Literary Digest the most interesting and valuable of all the weekly reviews for its compact, broad and impartial presentation of the most important subjects of current thought."

J. R. WRIGHTMAN, Professor Languages, Oberlin College:
"I know of no periodical that just fills the place it does. Appealing to such a variety of tastes, and giving in such condensed form the pith of what is going on in the world."

CHARLES J. TOWNE, Broker, New York:
"I cannot too strongly state my opinion of the very great ability with which The Literary Digest is edited, and of its usefulness, particularly to the busy man of affairs who wishes to keep fairly well in touch with the events of daily history and the recorded thinking of the time."

FLORENCE MORSE KINGSLEY, Author, New York:
(Renewing subscription after allowing to lapse.) "I am positively behind the times for the lack of The Literary Digest, and my family is not being properly brought up since it stopped coming."

MRS. HARRIET E. MONROE, Author and Lecturer, Washington:
"The Literary Digest has become a necessity to me."

ELIZABETH STETSON, Ashbourne, Pa.:
"Its broad and high tone, the wide range of subjects covered by its discussions, and the freshness of their treatment, combined with its conciseness, render it invaluable to the busy woman."

HON. CHARLES J. FAULKNER, U. S. Senator from West Virginia:
"I know of no publication similar to The Literary Digest which could possibly take its place. In all of its departments it is full and satisfactory. My wife is especially pleased with its contents."

THE BUNNET BAG LIKE BREATHIT

From Ambush Father and Daughter Are Shot.

Richmond, Va., April 22.—In the Bunnet Bag section of Franklin county yesterday James Nowlin, while returning home from Endicott on horseback, was shot from ambush by an unknown person, as was his little daughter, who was sitting in front of him. Both were killed and their bodies were found in the road, with the child's arms around the father's neck. Nowlin was known among illicit distillers as an informer, and this is supposed to account for the murder.

PITTSBURG ANARCHIST BAND.

Startling Charge Made by New York Attorney.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 22.—Attorneys N. A. Shibley, of New York, made a startling statement today in the central police station, where eight Syrians who had been arrested for riot were being tried. Mr. Shibley arrived late from New York and asked for a postponement of the hearing, but this was refused.

He then stated that an anarchistic society under the guise of a benevolent society had been organized here and that they had put their priest, Rev. Mr. Korkemas, in jail. Many of their countrymen of good character, he said, were forced to flee from New York because they were opposed to the society, and members of the organization had threatened to tortue the wives and mothers of their enemies in true Oriental fashion. Mr. Shibley said he had about a dozen witnesses to show before the proper tribunal that this was true.

The men were ordered to forfeit $15 or to serve twenty days in jail.

COLLISION OCCURS ON FRISCO.

Five Prisoners Killed at Potts Camp, Mississippi.

Potts Camp, Miss., April 22.—A disastrous head-on collision occurred between two freight trains near here today on the 'Frisco railroad, resulting in the death of five persons. Engineer Robert Muscrove was buried beneath his engine, and is dead. A brakeman, name unknown, and three boys were also killed. A wrecking train is on the scene of the collision.

Howard's Sentence Affirmed.

Frankfort, Ky., April 22.—The court of appeals today affirmed the sentence of life imprisonment imposed upon James Howard at his last trial, on the charge of complicity in the murder of William Goebel.

CAR BARN BANDITS HANG FROM CHICAGO GALLOWS

Neidermeier Too Weak To Walk Carried to Scaffold on Chair.

BANDIT TORE WARRANT FROM HANDS OF DEPUTY

Marx and Van Vine Both Walked to Scaffold and Died Without Showing Loss of Courage. Only a Few Saw Execution.

Chicago, April 22.—Compelled to be carried to the scaffold, Peter Neidermeier, leader of the car barn bandits, was hanged here today at 10:35 o'clock. Weak and pale, but with a slight suggestion of a smile, the bandit failed to carry out his oft-repeated boast that he would die before reaching the gallows.

The hanging of his associates, Gustav Marx and Harvey Van Dine, quickly followed.

Although it was expected at first that Neidermeier would be able to walk to the gallows with but little or no assistance, it was found at the last moment that he was too weak. Straps were placed over his ankles and just above his knees. He was then placed on a truck and wheeled to one of the lower floors of the jail, after which he was carried to the scaffold and placed in a chair on the trap.

He was not asked the customary question if he had anything to say, and the rope was quickly placed about his neck. He instinctively settled his neck into the noose and the trap was sprung. The body shot through the trap and for twenty minutes after it moved convulsively, the physicians at first being of the opinion that he was strangling to death and that the rope had been placed too low. After examination, however, the physicians announced that his neck had been broken.

Neidermeier appeared on the scaffold wearing a red rose, but without a coat. Previous to the execution and during the reading of the death warrant, Neidermeier snatched the paper from the chief deputy's hands and placed it in a pocket and made remarks in anger at this time, and once or twice when he was being taken to the scaffold.

Priests Attended Marx.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Marx was led to the scaffold, neatly dressed and with a white rose as a boutonnere, which had been given him by his small sister the night before. He was pale, but his courage never left him while he stood on the scaffold. He made no statement. Two priests of the Roman Catholic church, of which Marx had became a member, accompanied Marx to the gallows. He repeated a litany with them, kissed a crucifix, after which the jailer adjusted the noose and sprang the trap at 11:17. He was pronounced dead at 11:34, his neck having been broken.

Harvey Van Dine was hanged after a short interval. Incidents in Van Dine's execution were similar to those that characterized the execution of Marx. Like Marx, he was composed preceding his execution.

Van Dine made no statement of any kind.

With execution so near as to be awaited by minutes, Neidermeier, Marx and Van Dine, after a practically sleepless night, prepared for the end.

At first it was the intention of Sheriff Barrett to hang the trio simultaneously on one scaffold as the anarchists were executed some years ago. The plan, however, was abandoned mainly on account of Neidermeier's attempt at suicide, which had left him in a weakened condition and made it advisable that he should be hanged alone.

A large crowd assembled at the jail preceding the hour of execution and sought admission, but were turned away. Only a limited number provided by law were allowed in the jail to witness the execution of the bandits, whose careers—with Emil Roeski, imprisoned for life, but a few days before—were closed at practically the same time.

History of their Crimes.

The hanging of the youthful car barn bandits followed closely a period of crime of less than six months. In that time eight murders were committed, all attendant upon robberies or efforts to escape arrest.

It was during an attempt to escape on a stolen train after an extraordinary battle in the swamps of northern Indiana, just east of Chicago, that on November 27, of last year, the capture of the gang was completed by the arrest of Neidermeier, Van Dine and Emil Roeski, their associate, Marx, having already been placed behind the bars to await trial.

The specific offense for which Van Dine, Neidermeier and Marx were tried and sentenced was the murder of Frank Stewart, a clerk in the Chicago City railway car barns, during a robbery there on the morning of August 30, 1903. James B. Johnson, a motorman, was also killed, and two persons were wounded. The bandits escaped after having secured $2,240. Roeski was not concerned in this crime, but, after the conviction of his companions, was tried separately for one of the murders in which he was accused the principal.

Apprehension of the trio in Indiana was brought about through the boastfulness of Marx, which also caused his own undoing. While under the influence of liquor he displayed a magazine revolver of the kind known to have been used by the car barn murderers. He asserted that the police would never take him alive.

This came to the notice of Captain Schuettler. Detectives Quinn and Blaul were detailed to arrest Marx. They found him November 20 in a saloon. When about to take him into custody, Marx shot and killed Quinn and tried to shoot Blaul and escape, but was wounded and captured.

Several days later Marx, angered at the failure of his companions to carry out a prearranged plan to dynamite the police station, in which he was confined, and secure his release, confessed to the murders at the street railway barn, and implicated Neidermeier and Van Dine. Marx told of other desperate crimes they had committed, and involved Roeski. Until this admission, identity of the perpetrators had remained a mystery.

On Thursday evening, November 26, less than a week after the confession of Marx, word was received that three men, answering the descriptions of the car barn bandits, were in hiding near Clark, Ind. Seven policemen were immediately sent to the town, arriving there Friday morning. They were met by Henry F. Riechers, who had reported the clew, and who had secretly traced the trio to a "dugout" in the sand dunes, where they were living.

With Riechers as a guide, the police, armed with rifles and revolvers and led by Detective John H. Sheehan, waited till daybreak and then started for the snow covered cave near the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, at Wilsons, a short distance from Clark.

Desperate Fight at Cave.

Surrounding the abode, the officers prepared for the fight they expected would follow, while Sheehan approached and opened the door to the "dugout." One of the bandits who was immediately recognized as Roeski appeared and was ordered to surrender. Instead, he darted back into the cave. No sooner had he done so, than firing began, and volley after volley aimed at the officers, came from the magazine guns of the bandits.

Concealing themselves behind trees and bushes as best they could, the police steadily returned the fire.

In this manner the fight continued for a short time. Suddenly two of the outlaws jumped from the cave and escaped across the frozen prairies, keeping up a fusillade as they ran.

Detective Driscoll advanced to the "dugout" and was firing at the fleeing desperadoes, when Neidermeier—the police thought there had been but two in the hollow—emerged, fatally shot him in the back and joined his companions, while the other policemen were still engaging the outlaws. A moment later Detective Zimmer fell, seriously wounded, but neither side yielded. Some minutes later, however, the police, being obliged to care for the two wounded detectives, and finding their fire falling short, decided to give up the fight temporarily, and send to Chicago for reinforcements. The bandits continued their flight.

A special train with fifty policemen, armed with rifles, was rushed to the scene and the hunt renewed.

Although escape was now impossible, the men showed no signs of submission. They had not halted since firing their last volley and arrived at Tolliston exhausted but still determined to avoid capture.

On a side track at Tolliston, where section men were working, stood an engine and a train of cars. Then followed the execution of a quickly formed plan to seize the train and escape. The three outlaws jumped into the cab and confronted Fireman Frank Coffey, the engineer being away at the time. At first Coffey did not notice that they were armed. Brakeman Sovia did, however, and crawled over the tender evidently to warn him. Sovia attempted to take the revolver from Neidermeier while the other two bandits pointed their revolvers at Coffey. The scuffle was short and Sovia pitched headforemost out of the cab with a bullet in his brain, dying almost instantly.

With their guns still pointed at Coffey's head the trio ordered him hastily to take the train out of the siding and it started on a wild run to Liverpool.

With their guns a short distance away were a number of armed farmers, who, having heard of the escapade and escape of the outlaws, had started to intercept them. The posse reached Tolliston about noon, just as the train passed. They rushed across the prairie to a point where the road curves and where there was a locked switch, compelling Fireman Coffey to stop.

The posse opened fire as the train stopped, and the trio fled to a corn field, exchanging shots as they ran. Charges from the guns of the farmers, under the leadership of Charles Hamilton, struck Neidermeier and Van Dine, but did not seriously wound either. The bandits who had now made their last stand were not deterred and fired frequent volleys at their pursuers.

Surrender of Trio.

Knowing they were surrounded and that further resistance would be useless, the criminals some minutes later decided to surrender. Neidermeier, the leader of the gang, who Marx had said never would be taken alive, being the first to do so. A few minutes afterwards Van Dine abandoned the fight.

While Van Dine and Neidermeier were giving themselves up Roeski fled to the woods beyond Liverpool. The posse found him later in a railroad station at Aetna waiting for a train to Chicago. He made no resistance, was disarmed and brought to the city with the two other bandits.

Detective Driscoll, who was shot by Neidermeier, died four days later.

While in jail Neidermeier smilingly boasted of having killed twenty-three men. Marx asserted that he had murdered five. Investigation proved the statements to be untrue. It developed that these "confessions" had been made to obtain notoriety or for a small consideration as a chew of tobacco. Of the eight known victims of the bandits four are thought to have been killed by Neidermeier alone.

On January 6 the trial of Neidermeier, Van Dine and Marx, who had been indicted the day after the capture, began. But little testimony favorable to them was offered. No defense at all was made for Neidermeier.

In the case of Van Dine evidence was introduced to show that he had been since birth afflicted with a form of epilepsy which had made him irresponsible at times. The state introduced expert testimony to the effect that Van Dine was mentally responsible when he took part in the deliberately planned crimes.

A plea of clemency for Marx on the ground that his confession had led to the capture of his companions.

The case went to the jury March 11 and the next day Marx, Neidermeier and Van Dine were found guilty. Hanging was the punishment fixed by the jury.

The aged mothers of Marx, Neidermeier and Van Dine were in court during the progress of the trial, as were the widows of some of the men who had been slain, and there were a number of impressive incidents with the hearing of the case. None of the bandits had yet reached the age of 25 years.

Following are the names of persons they were known to have murdered:

Otto Bauder, in a saloon of Ernest Spires, July 9, 1903.

Benjamin C. LaGross, in his saloon, August 1.

Bauder Otto, in saloon of Ernest Spires, July 9, 1903.

Adolph Johnson, in saloon of Benjamin C. LaGross, August 1.

J. B. Johnson, motorman, in robbery of Chicago city railway car barns, August 30.

Frank Stewart, clerk, in robbery of Chicago city railway barns, August 30.

John Quinn, detective, while trying to arrest Marx, November 21.

J. D. Driscoll, detective, wounded by Neidermeier in fight at "dugout," November 27, died December 1.

John Sovia, brakeman, when bandits stole train in Indiana, November 27.

Wife Murderer Shot to Death.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 22.—Frank Rose, the wife murderer, was shot to death in the yard of the state penitentiary here today. Death was instantaneous, four bullets lodging in or very close to the heart.

Rose's crime was particularly atrocious and cold blooded in that it almost resulted in the death of his 2-year-old son from starvation and cold. Rose, who claimed his wife was consorting with another man, shot her on Christmas day while she was lying in bed. He sat and talked with her till she died of the wound, then went away, leaving his boy in bed with his dead mother, soaked in her blood. Rose says he returned four times in the next two days to feed the child, climbing through a window and over the dead body of his wife in order to get into the house.

At the end of that time he went to police headqurraters and gave himself up.

The czar will feel relieved when Alexieff is relieved.

Let spring go hang; we are studying the baseball scores.

The democratic presidential dark horse is pricking up his ears.

Duke Cyril has a great opportunity to become a great magazine author.

Doubtless Teddy, too, is distressed because Judge Parker is no talking machine.

The Massachusetts republicans seem to have the volatile Hoar conscience on reciprocity.

Those sun spots are getting serious. May be affecting politics as well as spring garden sass.

Blondes are declared to be decidedly out of fashion. What is the unchemical blonde to do—dye?

The commander of a battle ship must know how to handle her in target practice no less than in action.

It is said that 10,000 men in New York pay alimony regularly. Divorce is a luxury that the rich will have.

Our contemporaries should have some sympathy for Captain Cowles; he is Terrible Teddy's brother in law.

The name of the new admiral of the Port Arthur squadron also ends with "off." Goodby! Any last message?

The average southeast Missouri countryman will count his dog herd every morning since he is on to the Igorrote diet.

"There is a danger of panic hanging over the country," declares Bourke Cockran. Is this a tacit admission that Roosevelt's election is probable?

The thespians who went stranded on account of the Iroquois theater fire may be able to do heavy spellbinding roles on the stump to tide them through the summer.

Attention is called to the fact that United States senators get the same paltry salary that they did in 1865. Is this what has cheapened American statesmanship?

A Milwaukee policeman had part of his uniform stolen while he was in church, whither he is supposed to have gone in order that he might enjoy a siesta unmolested.

The administration proposes to get its beef trust inquiry (?) under way in time for the presidential campaign. Meanwhile, let the beef trust "come across" with the political sinews.

President Roosevelt is reported to be having long conferences with Mr. Garfield, of the trust investigation bureau of the department of commerce. Probably cautioning him not to run amuck.

The conclusion of Viceroy Alexieff that the Petrodontattempt to pronounceitsky was blown up by Japanese mines laid in the night is more creditable to Russian stupidity than the accident theory.

The building up of great southern ports needs only the strict enforcement of the anti-merger law to make supremacy in this regard certain. With railroad competition the export traffic will roll gulfward.

"I am not so sure," says Bishop Potter, "that the man who bears patiently with a scolding woman . . . is not a greater hero than the man who crosses a railroad track to rescue a child." And the good bishop was so lately remarried.

The Lewiston (Me.) Journal suggests three easy Maine names for some of the Russian warships that are likely to turn turtle any time because overweighted by their names, viz: Winnepiseogee, Mooselucmeguntoook and Messalonskee.

Soon we shall see an end of blue uniforms in the United States army and navy, drab being the color substituted. Poets who have been wont to make patriotic rhymes on "blue" and "true" will find "drab" and "grab" a bit rude and imperialistic.

The London Pharmaceutical Journal reports that a chemist has extracted five million grammes of radium out of a half crown silver coin, worth in American money about 62 cents. The man is no doubt a scientific Sherman bent on demonetizing radium.

Repudiating Root and Roosevelt.

The veto Secretary of War Taft has put upon the proposition to surround him with a cavalry escort when he visits St. Louis on the opening day of the exposition will meet the hearty approval of the American people.

Secretary Taft's attitude may have been prompted by innate appreciation of the proprieties, or it may be nothing more than evidence that the popular criticisms of recent happenings at Washington have had a salutary effect; but whatever the inspiration, his action deserves commendation.

It can hardly be expected, however, that Mr. Root, Secretary Taft's predecessor in office, will be particularly pleased. Mr. Root is a firm believer in militarism, and as secretary of war insisted upon all the trimmings. It was at his suggestion, with the full approval of the hero of the white house, that an escort of cavalry was sent to convey the new secretary of war to his quarters upon his arrival in Washington, and it was in pursuance of the precedent thus set that President Roosevelt himself ordered out government troops to escort to the depot the departing Root—then a private citizen.

Secretary Taft now repudiates that precedent—throws it over ruthlessly. He has a homely regard for good American common sense, and evidently sympathizes with the popular criticism of all that foolish show. Mr. Root and President Roosevelt may not be de-light-ed with their repudiation at the secretary's hands, but the American people are.

The Conspiracy Against Russia.

The announcement that Admiral Alexieff has "asked to be relieved" from his post as the czar's viceroy in the Far East has a familiar sound about whose meaning there can be no mistake. Alexieff saw he was headed toward the Grand Bounce, and he wired in his resignation in the hope of anticipating official action. The St. Petersburg dispatches announcing that his resignation will be accepted mean he is to be let down as easily as possible.

But that he is to go, and go at once, there is no doubt. At last, the eyes of the czar have been opened to a realization of the grievous crime perpetrated upon their country by the men whose misrepresentations were responsible for this war with Japan, the chief of them Alexieff, in whom there had been reposed the greatest official and popular confidence. From the standpoint of ability, this confidence was not misplaced; but events have proven that he was the central figure in the conspiracy which has brought disaster and dishonor down upon the Russian name.

To further the interests of a clique of promoters and exploiters who had large concessions in Manchuria and hoped for larger ones in Korea, Alexieff threw the weight of his great influence in favor of not only declining but spurning the propositions advanced by Japan. He and his associates in high places misrepresented everything. They misrepresented conditions in Manchuria, they induced the czar to believe that the Japs were bluffing and could not fight even if they wanted to, and they pictured everything lovely with the Russian army and navy, and everything appertaining thereto, in the Far East.

The happenings at Port Arthur have come to the czar as a terrible awakening. His discovery that the Japanese had not been bluffing was a rude enough shock, but on top of that has come the realization that everything told him about the preparedness of his naval forces was misrepresentation—that he had been fed on lies, lies, lies from the first.

So Alexieff is to go back home in disgrace. It is well; for unless the world misjudges him cruelly, his crime against his native land has been very great.

A Case for Chauncey.

There is consternation in the ranks of New York's Four Hundred. A few evenings since, a number of rude persons of Pennsylvania birth held a love feast in one of the big banquet halls of the metropolis, and then and there one of them essayed to make ribald jests over the pretensions of the sacred knickerbockers.

This scoffer, like most of his associates upon the occasion in question, was willing to plead guilty to the impeachment of being "Pennsylvania Dutch"—which, of course, proves him a low person in the minds of the descendants of the much worshiped old knickerbocker fathers who founded New Amsterdam and who, on the assumption that they must have seen visions of the future of their modest little trading post, have grown into holy things since their farms and pastures and garden-plots have blossomed with sky-scrapers.

The assumption of these Pennsylvania Dutch in holding a banquet right in the heart of the sacred tenderloin vanished into insignificance when compared with the utterances of the aforesaid scoffer, who was their principal spokesman. He assaulted the aristocratic pretensions of the New Yorkers who, he said, "turned up their noses at the Pennsylvania Dutchman because he didn't arrogate to himself a coat of arms and put a 'Van' before his name. There seems to be a general belief in New York," he continued, going more fully into particulars, "that the Dutch 'Van' signifies the landed estate that carries the meaning of the German 'Von,' the French 'De' or the Russian 'Sky.' We are told that it is noble. The truth is that the Jacobs and the Jans and the Peters who landed in Manhattan and scattered through Jersey and over into Pennsylvania were all cut out of the same cloth"

Then, as if to add insult to injury, he declares that in the entire Manhattan colony there was but one man possessing the luxury of a surname.

To illustrate his contention he took—doubtless "with bated breath," as the novelists would say—the name of Vanderbilt. According to his statement, the ancestor of those having that gold-enshrined patronymic was Aert (Arthur) who, like his fellow-immigrants, had no surname His son became Aertson. When this Aertson moved across to Kings county, he found another Aertson who had priority right in the name, so to prevent a mixing-up the newcomer called himself Aertson Van Der Bilt, which properly translated means nothing except Arthur from near the Town of Bilt!

Is it not now "up" to Uncle Chauncey Depew to rescue the sacred Vanderbilt name from this iconoclastic assault and save the blessed Dutch?

Southern Export Supremacy Certain.

The International Economist, of New York, a periodical especially devoted to the development of our foreign trade, has in its current issue an interesting article on "The Transition of Our Ports," in which the interesting question, will the gulf ports eventually outstrip the Atlantic seaboard ports in export shipments, is quite fully discussed.

The north and south trunk lines which have brought about a vigorous rivalry with the old transcontinental roads in export shipments from the great west are playing havoo with the export shipment statistics of the north Atlantic ports, which have always enjoyed a monopoly of that species of commerce. Already New Orleans stands next to New York in the statistical column, with Galveston a close third. How, with the rapidly growing trend of foreign freightage southward, are the eastern ports to hold their own and avoid rapid decline?

The International Economist points out that, taking the Atlantic ports as a whole, the exports of 1893 amounted to $643,000,000 and in 1903, $920,000,000, an increase of less than 50 per cent. In the case of the gulf ports, the exports of 1893 were $131,000,000, and those of 1903, $331,000,000.

"Even in actual increase," says this authority, "that of the gulf ports nearly equals that of the Atlantic ports, the absolute gain in exports from the Atlantic ports being, from 1893 to 1903, $277,000,000, and that of the gulf ports $200,000,000."

The International Economist then proceeds to give the following specific "presumable surmises" as to what the future holds in store for the gulf ports:

1. The prohibition of a concentration of all the railroad interests of the country under one managerial policy, forbids, to some extent, the killing of one port in favor of another.

Thus the individual railroad interest of gulf terminal lines will serve to develop respective southern ports.

2. The long lateral railroad haul must be displaced by the shorter gulf port carriage and the subsequent cheaper water transportation to a point supposedly equal to the competitive Atlantic seaboard shipping port.

3. Establishment of direct steamship lines, with regular service between gulf ports and European points, is only in line with present successful transportation methods.

4. The completion of the Panama canal, with the then comparatively close trade of the western coast of South America, Australia, the Philippines and the enormous prospective field in the Orient.

5. The eventual construction of a transpeninsular canal across northern Florida which would save 700 miles of water route from gulf coast points to our own Atlantic seaboard ports as well as to Europe, and also avoid the "marine grave yard" at the southern extremity of Florida.

6. To the eventual improvement, under national action, of the Mississippi river to the end that Chicago, Pittsburg, St. Louis and all other cities and towns along its banks will have efficient water transportation to New Orleans.

This is, indeed, in every specification, a "presumable surmise." Nay, it is as much a certainty as anything in the future can be certain, for in it we must recognize the unerring "logic of events," if unborn events, in part. With such a showing it is difficult to see how this New York publication can hold out much hope for that great and all-supreme port (in the past), but it does so in the following neat succeeding paragraph:

All of the above does not argue that Atlantic seaboard ports will decline in present commerce—on the contrary, even as the surface railroads of New York city gained a larger business after the completion of the elevated railroad, which was conjecturably supposed to be a disastrous competitor, so, in reasonable surmise, would be the growth of new business for New York and other seaboard points that a total increase of present commerce could well be conjectured, but the seaboard volume even under such increase will most probably be surpassed within a decade or two, by the combined export commerce of gulf ports.

Verily, the south is surely, and not so slowly, coming into her own. The day is at hand when she shall lead, others follow.

CARD FROM ROBERT BROYLES

Thanks His Friends for their Support in the Recent Primary.

R. A. Broyles, who was a candidate for representative from Fulton county at the recent primary, has written a card thanking his supporters for their interest and support.

His card follows:

Editor Constitution: I was defeated for the legislature, cause: I did not get a sufficient number of votes to elect me. I extend my sympathy as well as thanks to my friends—sympathy for their failure to accomplish the result they so much desired, and thanks for their congratulations to me on my defeat, as well as for their warm support. I have committed no act of which I am ashamed, and will do naught in the future to forfeit their esteem. I believe I can "run further, jump higher, dive deeper and come up dryer" than any one for his friends, and I shall be much gratified to be called upon either day or night to verify this declaration to those of my fellow-citizens who so loyally stood by me to the end. With congratulations to the three successful candidates, I am, very truly, R. A. BROYLES.

CORDON MEMORIAL FUND IS GROWING

Committees Will Devote Friday to Canvassing Atlanta.

Amount of Fund Is Now Between $5,000 and $6,000 — Appeal Has Been Made to All Camps of Confederate Veterans.

The fund being raised for a memorial monument to General John B. Gordon has grown considerably within the last few weeks, and the reports made at recent meetings of the association, the last one held at the Piedmont on Thursday, show that the subscriptions have run up considerably over $5,000. Captain W. H. Harrison alone has reported subscriptions amounting to $1,009.

The association has secured about $3,000 of the amount from citizens of Atlanta, and it is now anxious to double this amount. With this end in view it was decided at the last meeting that the members of the various Atlanta committees which have been canvassing for subscriptions, shall devote one entire day to the work next week, laying aside all other business. The day selected is Friday and on that day it is proposed to make as thorough a canvass of the city as is possible.

In addition to this, President W. L. Calhoun, of the Gordon Monument Association, will issue an appeal to the Confederate Veterans' camps, the Daughters of the Confederacy and other patrotic societies in the city, asking them to secure subscriptions wherever possible and report them to the association.

Several replies have already been received from various camps of Confederate Veterans in different parts of the south making subscriptions to the fund, and it is hoped that the responses from this source will be general. There are 1,600 camps of Confederate Veterans and if an average of $10 is received from each of them, the total would be $16,000. It is believed that the majority of the camps can afford to subscribe that much to the fund.

The association will hold its next meeting Thursday afternoon, April 28, at 5 o'clock, at the Piedmont hotel. At that time final arrangements will be made for canvassing the city on the Friday following according to programme.

PROF. J. W. GLENN DEAD.

Well-known Educator, Formerly of Atlanta, Passes Away at Tyler, Tex.

Professor John W. Glenn, for many years a well known teacher in this state and elsewhere, died a very few days since in Tyler, Tex.

He taught at Talbotton, Ga., in Martin institute, at Jefferson, Ga., was once professor of mathematics at Auburn, Ala., in what was then the East Alabama Male college, but is now the State Polytechnic school, and at another time filled the chair of agriculture in the University of Tennessee. He taught elsewhere, but the greater part of his life was spent in these institutions. Possibly his best, and certainly his longest service, was at the head of Martin institute. Hundreds of bright men and women are now prominent in many useful and honorable walks of life who owe much to his able and faithful instruction.

A year or two ago he removed to Tyler, Tex., where his son, Professor F. A. Glenn, is prominent in educational work.

He was the son of a man famous in his day as a Methodist preacher. Rev. John Walker Glenn, and was born in Jackson county, Georgia, in the year 1830. He is survived by his widow, who was a sister of the late Dr. Gustavus J. Orr, by his son, Professor F. A. Glenn, by his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Davenport, of Atlanta, and by many other relatives in Georgia, including Dr. W. F. Glenn, of the north Georgia conference. Professor Glenn was a man of pure life and exalted character, and was a life long and consistent member of the Methodist church.

He had a wide knowledge of almost every subject which engages the attention of scholarly men and was remarkable for the progressiveness of his views. While he was proficient in the abstract sciences, he was also well versed in sciences of practical application, including scientific agriculture.

His success in imparting his knowledge to others was marked and few men have lived a life more beneficial to their fellow men.

WOMEN HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Said To Have Robbed Man by Force. Officer Thinks Knockout Drops May Have Figured.

Edna Brown and Margaret Collins, white, and Hattie Williams, colored, were bound over to the state courts yesterday afternoon by Recorder Nash Broyles on the charge of robbery. On evidence developed from the same case, Josie Curbow, white, was also held to the state courts on the charge of selling beer. The bonds of the three former were placed at $500 each and the Curbow woman was assessed a bond of $200, on which she was later released.

G. R. Davis, of Oakdale, appeared as prosecutor of the women. He stated that he went to 5 Collins street, the place conducted by Josie Curbow, and after drinking a bottle of beer, he was seized by the other two white women and the negro woman and robbed of $310. A torn pocketbook was tendered in evidence and Davis also exhibited some bruises on one of his hands, which he said were received in the struggle.

The women were arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Fogg and Simpson. Detective Fogg stated to the recorder that there was strong indication that knock-out drops had been used on Davis.

ESCAPED CONVICT CAPTURED.

Man Was Released from Jail by the Sheriff's Daughter.

Montgomery, Ala., April 22.—(Special.)—Eli Knighton, the white convict who escaped from the cordage works in this city February 24, was recaptured in Cherokee county, and will be brought back here to serve out his sentence. He was convicted of bigamy. He is the convict who, while in jail in Blount county, the sheriff's daughter fell in love with and released from jail.

TO PLAY ON CRUM FOR NECRO VOTE

Republican Senators Lashed to Action by Roosevelt.

By Jos: Ohl.

Washington, D. C., April 22—(Special.) The republicans of the senate, urged on by President Roosevelt, are going to make a grandstand play with the Crum case in the closing days of this session of congress.

Today Senator Gallinger, who has charge of the majority report which is favorable to the confirmation of Crum, served notice upon Senator Clay, in charge of the minority report, that he will call up the case at tomorrow's executive session and that he will press for a vote.

It has been expected that the case would be allowed to go over to the next session and Senator Tillman has gone to his home in South Carolina with that understanding. Senator Latimer is also absent from the city, having gone to Boston to address a good roads convention there.

In the light of the absence of both South Carolina senators there is a disposition to construe Senator Gallinger's action as an effort to take snap judgment in the Crum case, but he has been given assurance by the democratic senators that there will certainly be a full discussion before a vote can be had, and that if the republican senators consider this case more important than other public business which should be transacted before the end of the session, the issue will be met.

Whether this will operate to delay adjournment which the republican leaders have fixed for next week is yet to develop. It is believed that this move on the part of Senator Gallinger is nothing more than an effort to make a play to satisfy the negro voters of northern states who are insisting upon action and that when the test comes they will let nothing stand in the way of early adjournment.

Senator Gallinger has let his fellow-senators understand that the particular pressure for action upon the cae now comes from President Roosevelt, who seeks to gratify the desires of the many negroes who are flooding him with letters and petitions tending to make it plain that if Crum is not confirmed the republican party will be held responsible by the negro voters.

With regard to the suggestion that this calling up of the case during Senator Tillman's absence might be construed as a breach of senatorial courtesy, Senator Gallinger explains that about a week ago Senator Tillman said he did not want to make his statement at that time as he desired first to have a decision of the judiciary committee upon the question of Crum's present standing as a "constructive recess" appointee. That while the officials of the treasury held he is not entitled to compensation for his present services he preferred to have the legal question passed upon before he made his speech and that as Snator Tillman was here for several days after his conference with Senator Gallinger and did not during that time make his speech, he (Gallinger) thought it proper to now press for the consideration of the nomination.

Democratic senators generally say they recognize the power of the majority to put through the confirmation as they have the votes, but they do not intend there shall be any snap judgment taken and they strongly intimate that there is no likelihood of very early adjournment if they insist upon putting the Crum case ahead of all other business.

The prevailing opinion is that the republican senators will feel that they have complied with the whole house mandate if they call the matter up in executive session and put the responsibility for further delay upon the democrats who are perfectly willing to assume it.

This, however, is not likely to please either President Roosevelt or his negro friends who know that if the republicans of the senate had been in earnest they could have had a vote upon this case earlier in the session or could stay on here and bring it to a vote.

MONEY TO LEND

On Choice Residence and Business Property in the City of Atlanta.

At 5 Per Cent Interest.

THE SOUTHERN MORTGAGE CO.

24 South Broad St.

THE PASSING THRONG.

Wherever the sun shines bright and warm, in every country of the world, G. M. Knight, of Boston, has traveled. "climate hunting," he says. These travels have consumed twenty-four years.

Just now Mr. Knight is in Atlanta, spending a week at the Piedmont after a winter in California, which, he says, was nothing short of ideal from the weather standpoint.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Knight was in the cotton mill machinery business and as long ago as sixty years his firm sold machinery to the scattered mills of Georgia and Alabama.

"There used to be a mill operated by the Flint River Milling Company here in Georgia," said Mr. Knight yesterday. "I suppose that the name of that company was on our books a good deal more than half a century ago. Then we sold machinery in Alabama long before the war.

"Cotton mills in the south were a rarity then and our business was principally with New England mills. But now, what a change has come to pass. The strides in cotton spinning and weaving in the south have been wonderful. Everywhere I travel in the south I see cotton mills. And I understand they are prospering."

During the past twenty-four years Mr. Knight has not been engaged in any business, but has devoted himself entirely to his "climate hunting."

"I had no family and my health was poor, so I gave up business and began traveling," he said. "I have been pretty much all over the world—that is, in every warm country, for I am a climate hunter and have avoided the cold countries.

"For that reason I have never seen Vladivostok and Port Arthur, the two points so much in the public eye just now. The weather is just too cold there to suit my requirements. I know Japan pretty well, however. That is a remarkable country.

"Japan is beautiful and a wonderfully productive country. And the people. They are the most progressive people I know. They adopt everything that is useful and up to date regardless of expense. They are the most progressive farmers, manufacturers and soldiers.

"I remember a number of years ago—just before the Chinese-Japanese war—visiting a government navy yard in Japan. There were hundreds of men at work there and every one of them was a Jap, from the laborers to the designers. They do not give foreign experts lifetime sinecures in Japan. Indeed, they will not employ a foreigner for a term of more than three years. They figure that in three years they can squeeze all he knows out of him and then they want his place filled by another, fresh from the western world. In this way they keep in touch with all that is newest and most modern. And they adopt all that is valuable. Their railroads and postal system are magnificent.

"A great deal has been said about Japanese morality. As a matter of fact, moral standards in the Orient are vastly different from moral standards in the western world. Japanese young people, before marriage are permitted by custom to conduct themselves in a way we would regard as terrible, but after marriage their behavior would almost always be indorsed by the most exacting Europeans or Americans."

Mr. Knight talks interestingly of India and other Oriental countries.

"I visited Brazil some years ago and was much struck with the jury system there," he said. "I made the acquaintance of a Brazilian lawyer and we discussed one day the laws of the United States as compared with the laws of Brazil. He pointed out to me some differences which he regarded as in the advantage of Brazil and I agreed with him. The jury system was one of them.

"A panel of forty-eight talesmen is drawn for every case and some twelve of these talesmen must try the case. The attorneys cannot go outside of the panel of forty-eight for jurymen. In the jury the majority rule prevails and in case of a tie the judge has a vote. After the case has been decided by a jury it can never be heard by a jury again. If fundamental errors of law were committed in the trial they may be corrected by a higher court, but no jury will ever hear the case again. In this way a man't suit is usually decided in his lifetime, which is not true of the courts in some American states."

The winter in California has been ideal, Mr. Knight says.

"We didn't have a single bad day from the middle of October to the first part of April," he said. "It was the finest winter they have ever had out there and I doubt if they will ever have another like it."

A friend of one of the candidates who opposed Ordinary John R. Wilkinson approached a voter at the third ward polls on election day and solicited his support.

"No, sir," replied the voter, "I'm going to vote for Judge Wilkinson and get every other man I can to vote for him."

"Why," said the other, "I know that you have no more than a slight acquaintance with him."

"Yes, but I've got to vote for him," said the voter.

"Why?" persisted the other.

"Because he sent my mother in law to the insane asylum," cried the voter, "and he won't ever have to ask twice for a favor from me."

THE FULTON DELEGATION TO STATE CONVENTION

Several days ago The Evening News of Atlanta, The Macon Telegraph and several other state papers published the details of the agreement which had been reached by which there was to be no conflict in this county as to the delegation to be chosen to the state convention.

In the reports published in those papers the statement was made that the two factions in the county committee had been brought together with the view of harmonizing their differences and preventing a conflict. It was stated that it was difficult to agree upon a basis and as published in all these papers the following statement was made:

"Tom Felder finally proposed that, speaking for his side, he would be willing to leave the naming of the whole delegation to Clark Howell if the other side would. This was accepted and Clark Howell was asked to name the delegation. He agreed to do so only upon the condition that both sides agreed to support the ticket named. This was done and the majority of the executive committee has already been signed and pledged to the support of the names offered by Clark Howell."

Yesterday afternoon The Evening Journal, evidently excited about a publication more than a week old, published on its front page in display headlines that the "Fulton delegation had not been named by Clark Howell," and following that was an alleged interview with T. B. Felder as follows:

"Mr. Felder, when seen by a Journal reporter, said:

"'The statement in The Constitution to the effect that the delegates selected to the executive committee on yesterday were named by Hon. Clark Howell, is absolutely untrue.

"'The twelve delegates were selected by the two factions in the executive committee which arose over the Blalock matter. Our faction which has been clearly known from the first to be the dominant one, selected the following: Thomas B. Felder, Jr., J. J. Spaulding, Charles T. Hopkins, E. T. Brown, T. J. Day and Burton Smith.

"'The minority faction, represented by Albert Howell, Jr., named the following delegates: Albert Howell, Jr., W. C. Waddell, W. P. Andrews, S. C. Tapp, J. W. Goldsmith and T. E. Veal.

"'The majority faction had had so many unsatisfactory dealings with the minority faction that I insisted on having the agreement put in writing and signed. I also insisted that Mr. Clark Howell sign the agreement as a witness. This he did and this was his sole connection with the matter. The delegation will vote as a unit and will vote for delegates favorable to Judge Alton B. Parker, and will work to secure the election of Mr. James R. Gray as delegate at large.

"'I do not mean to say that I named six delegates, the names I suggested were submitted to me by our caucus and I carried out their instructions to the letter.'"

The Constitution endeavored to locate Mr. Felder yesterday afternoon, but was told that he had left his office and would not return during the day. It was impossible to reach him during the evening, it having been stated that he had probably left the city for the day.

Statement from Clark Howell.

On being seen in reference to the matter Clark Howell said:

"I have nothing to say on the subject further than that I brought Messrs. Felder and Albert Howell together in my office with the view of urging them to reach an agreement by which a conflict in the committee could be avoided over the naming of the delegates to the state convention. They could not agree upon a basis and Mr. Felder said that he would be willing to leave the naming of the delegation to me. I undertook the effort to harmonize only upon both sides asking me to do so. These gentlemen returned to my office in the afternoon and I suggested to them a ticket which I thought was a fair one. Then Mr. Felder stated that a committee of his side was to be in his office that afternoon and that he would like to submit the names to them—that he would be back at 5 o'clock. He returned to my office accordingly at 5 o'clock. He and Mr. Howell each suggested a change which was made, the ticket was signed in my office and both sides left to get the signatures from the other members of the committee. That is all I have to say on the subject and Mr. Felder will approve every word of it. The interview as above attributed to him does not express his opinion and I know that he did not authorize any such statement. I had no earthly interest in the matter except to harmonize a trouble that was brewing. It seemed to be a very simple matter over which to divide the committee in a bitter contest and that it was better all around that a mutually satisfactory agreement be reached. That is all there is in it and all I have to say on the subject."

Statement from Albert Howell, Jr.

On being seen in reference to Mr. Felder's interview Albert Howell, Jr., said:

"Upon seeing the interview in the paper I tried to reach Mr. Felder, but was told that he was out of town. I am confident that Mr. Felder gave no such interview. I was opposed to any compromise whatsoever and was willing to take our chances in the committee meeting. I met Mr. Felder in Clark Howell's office, however, and the latter urged us both to effect an agreement which would avoid a fight. We discussed the matter for awhile and Mr. Felder finally said that he would be perfectly willing to leave the naming of the whole ticket to Clark Howell if I agreed. I did so and we left the office to meet at the same place three hours later. We met again, the ticket was named, two changes agreeable to both parties were made after Mr. Felder had asked for an hour's time to see some friends waiting in his office. We signed the agreement and went out to get other signatures. I have nothing further to say than that the interview as published with Mr. Felder certainly does him an injustice, but Mr. Felder will no doubt speak for himself when he sees the interview attributed to him."

Card from Mr. Childress.

In reference to the two meetings of the Fulton county executive committee Thursday, E. F. Childress has written the following card:

Editor Constitution: This matter of the delegates and alternates and their election and the two meetings of Thursday seems just a little amusing to me. I was present at the noon meeting and after it was announced that a majority of the committee had agreed to the ticket which was read out at that meeting by the secretary, as Mr. Howell refused to read it after he saw his name was on it, out of absolute modesty, and out of modesty I declined to vote on the matter, as I discovered that somebody had seen fit to honor me so highly as to give me an alternate's place, and I here and now deny voting for myself—absolutely.

The reason of my attending the evening meeting was by invitation of some of my friends, who said they were going down to elect the delegates, and I told them that the matter was taken up at the noon meeting, and it was announced that a majority of the committee had agreed to the list of delegates and there was no reason why they should not be indorsed at the noon meeting. These gentlemen stated that they had no notice of anything of the kind, and I went with them down to the court house and found several others there, and they kept coming until seventeen committeemen had arrived, and I learned that a number of them were very much surprised at the action of the noon meeting, as it was very thoroughly understood that the matter was not to be taken up until 3 o'clock p. m.

I then stated and now state that if those present had not been notified of the meeting they were not treated properly and it was not right, for at this meeting all the members should have had ample notice of the meeting and an opportunity to attend and a voice in the selection of the delegation.

I think the matter of the delegation is entirely satisfactory. I have heard of no objections to the personnel of the delegates. I am an alternate, and if anybody has any objection to my serving in that capacity, I should be delighted to get a delegate's place in exchange for it.

If anybody has any objection to the delegation I have not heard it, unless it is The Atlanta Journal, which has seen fit to brand those at the meeting as "soreheads," and there were several delegates at that meeting, as well as a number of other gentlemen, one of whom was a happy and genial Journal reporter.

LOCAL MERCHANTS WILL COMPLAIN

Railroad Commission Will Investigate Atlanta Freight Rates.

Atlanta Manufacturers and Jobbers, Through Atlanta Freight Bureau, Allege Discrimination in Rates Against Them.

For the purpose of actively pushing before the Georgia railroad commission the cases against the railroads for alleged discriminations against Atlanta merchants in the rates between this city and both Savannah and Brunswick, representatives of the Atlanta freight bureau and of the Atlanta chamber of commerce will this morning appear before the railroad commission.

It is impossible to state just who the witnesses against the railroads will be, or just what line the arguments will take, because of the fact that the Atlanta freight bureau was not prepared to make the announcement last evening. Representatives of that organization were in conference yesterday afternoon with the attorneys who will represent the claims of the city. Another conference will be held this morning prior to the meeting of the railroad commission, which convenes at 9 o'clock.

The alleged discriminations are on all lines of goods that are handled by Atlanta jobbers and manufacturers, and who ship to either Savannah or Brunswick. It is therefore certain that a large and representative crowd of Atlanta business men and manufacturers will be before the railroad commission for the purpose of making their complaints.

The fight for Atlanta is being made by the Atlanta freight bureau, which has been in existence for about two years. Mr. Moore, who is in charge of the office of the bureau, has made a careful study of the Atlanta rate question, and he is prepared to take an active part in the hearing of this morning.

The railroads will be represented by their attorneys. The hearing is expected to be both lively and interesting.

The commission proposes to take under consideration the question of reducing its rate tariffs all over the state. This matter came up as the result of an application made to the commission by the Atlanta freight bureau. The bureau made complaint that the rates from Atlanta to coast cities were too high in comparison with rates from Virginia cities to the same points, thus giving the merchants of the Virginia cities an advantage in territory that really belongs to Atlanta.

As the result of a hearing on this subject, the railroads agreed to and did increase the rates from the Virginia cities so as to put them on a parity with Atlanta, but the Atlanta freight bureau insisted that the rates from Atlanta should be reduced. This and several other questions which have been presented to the commission resulted in its calling on the railroad traffic men to show cause why the freight tariffs all over the state should not be reduced. It is expected the hearing will be quite an interesting one, but it is not probable that a final decision will be reached for some days after the hearing has been concluded.

The railroad commission was in session yesterday, but only routine matters were discussed, including several applications for depots at various points in the state.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed at all drug stores.

GOSSIP AT THE CAPITOL

State School Commissioner W. B. Merritt will go to Birmingham, Ala., Monday for the purpose of attending the conference on education in the south to be held there Tuesday. President Robert C. IN THE COURTS.

Mrs. Eliza M. Atlee yesterday filed a suit for $5,000 damages against the city of Atlanta for injuries alleged to have been sustained by striking an obstruction on the sidewalk while passing the corner of James and Spring streets at 11 o'clock at night October 6, 1902. Mrs. Atlee alleges that for a year she was compelled to use crutches and that she has never recovered from the injuries.

Frank H. Atlee, her husband, filed a suit based on the same cause of action for $2,500. Both suits were filed by Westmoreland Bros.

G. A. Woodson, the furniture dealer who was tried and convicted on a charge of assault to murder before Judge Roan on Thursday, was yesterday sentenced to twelve months in jail or a fine of $150. The jury trying the case recommended that the matter be treated as a misdemeanor.

Paul McKinney, a street car man, charged with assault to murder, was tried in Judge Roan's court yesterday and acquitted.

Ordinary John R. Wilkinson is receiving dozens of letters and telegrams of congratulation since the election. Some of them have come from distant states. Judge Wilkinson says he feels deeply grateful for the fine support accorded him at the polls on Wednesday.

SOCIETY

Dance at Segadlos.

MISS LAURA HILL PAYNE was the lovely young hostess at a dance given last evening at Segadlo's hall, at which about thirty couples were entertained. The guests included the members of the younger set and the occasion was an unusually enjoyable one.

During the evening delightful fruit punch was served, and Buchanan's orchestra furnished an interesting musical programme.

Miss Payne wore a dainty gown of pink flowered organdie and Miss Helen Payne was also gowned in pink, and was one of the most popular girls present.

The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Wessells, Mrs. John Moore and Mrs. Louis Gholstin.

Pit Party.

LAST evening Miss Minnie Atkinson entertained at a pit party in compliment to Miss Lizzie May Turner, the guests including the wedding party and a few intimate friends.

In the decorations throughout the attractive home on Jackson street quantities of snow balls, white carnations and dogwood were used, combined with palms and ferns.

The score cards were in the shape of wedding bells and after the game a delicious supper was served.

The first prize for the ladies was a vase, and the consolation, a set of cuffs and turnovers; for the gentlemen the prizes included an ash receiver and match case, while the consolation was a picture. As a special souvenir the bride-to-be and guest of honor, was presented with a tiny silver bell.

Miss Atkinson, who made a charming hostess, received her guests in a lovely gown of white organdie lace trimmed; Mrs. Fanny Clarkson, who assisted the hostess in receiving, was gowned in white embroidered swiss. The guest of honor was particularly attractive in a gown of white.

Dinner Party.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK STEWART entertained at dinner last evening at their home on Capitol avenue in compliment to Miss Adah Petway and Mr. Jack Stewart.

The table was beautifully decorated in maiden hair ferns and white flag lilies, a large silver loving cup filled with these flowers forming the centerpiece.

Those invited to meet the guests of honor were: Miss Louise Todd, Miss Martha Boynton, Miss Laudie Holland, Mrs. Richard Harris, Dr. William Owens, Mr. William Glenn, Mr. Harvey Phillips and Mr. Jasper Bell.

Mrs Park Honored.

MRS. ROBERT EMORY PARK was elected vice president general of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution at the convening session of the centennial congress holding in Washington, D. C., the past week. Mrs. Park was twice state regent of the Georgia division of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is one of most popular of Georgia's patriotic women. Under her two administrations a number of chapters were organized in the state and movements of patriotic import inspired by her zealous interest.

The office of vice president general is one of the highest in the giving of the national society, being next in importance to that of president general.

While Mrs. Park was unanimously elected as vice president general, the same compliment was paid Mrs. I. Y. Sage and Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb in their unanimous election as regent and vice regent of the Georgia Daughters. Mrs. Sage is a member of the Atlanta chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution and Mrs. Lipscomb is the founder and regent of the Athens chapter.

Mrs. Harman's Party.

AN unusually pretty affair was the card party at which Mrs. H. E. Harman entertained on yesterday morning at her home on Merritts avenue, in compliment to Miss Eva Wilby.

The game was followed by a course luncheon and the prizes which included a sofa pillow embroidered in violets and a framed picture were won by Miss Florine Richardson and Miss Ethel Mobley.

The score cards were hand-painted ballet girls and were tied with bows of bright colored ribbon.

Miss Wilby wore a stylish gown of green crepe de chine, while her guest, Miss Stafford, of Chattanooga, was much admired in a gown of white embroidered linen voile. One of the most attractive young girls present was Miss Roberta Scott, who was becomingly gowned in brown crepe de chine, with a picture hat of brown and tan lace. Her marriage to Mr. Hinds, of Birmingham, will be an interesting event of June.

The guests who enjoyed Mr. Harman's hospitality were Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Edgar Hunnicutt, Mrs Robert Wood, Mrs. Rucker, Mrs. Dan Ruden, Mrs. Nash Broyles, Miss Wilby, Miss Stafford, of Chattanooga; Miss Annie Nutting, Miss Ethel Mobley, Miss Mabel Powers, Miss Roline Clark, Miss Sue Clarke, of North Carolina; Miss Florine Richardson, Miss Julia Porter, Miss Myrtle Tye, Miss Nellie Hightower, Miss Margaret Newman, Miss Roberta Scott, Miss Hortense Hochstrasser and Miss Bessie Shaw.

Buffet Luncheon.

MRS. CHARLES A. DAVIS and Mrs. Hudson Moore were the hostesses at a buffet luncheon given yesterday in compliment to Miss Lizzie May Turner, whose marriage to Mr. Charles A. Davis will be one of the brilliant social events of the coming week.

Thirty-five guests, including that many of the unmarried set, were entertained, the guests assembling at 1:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Moore were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Harvey Anderson and the guest of honor, the quartet forming a group of most attractive women.

In the drawing room the guests were received, and here were beautiful decorations in white and green, the full and graceful snowball blossoms combining with white carnations, the flowers used against a background of ferns and potted plants showing white flowers.

In the library purple iris proved a most effective decoration, and in the dining room, where the elegant luncheon was served, the decorations were in pink.

The lace covered centerpiece was a basket of pink roses and swansonia blossoms with ferns combined. The silver candlesticks placed about it had shades of pink and silver and the bonbons were in pink.

On the mantel and cabinets were vases of pink carnations and all the accessory appointments were in pink.

Mrs. Davis wore an elegant toilet in white pongee silk and lace. Mrs. Hudson Moore was beautiful in pale blue silk and lace, and Mrs. Harvey Anderson was a charming figure in pale amethyst colored silk and lace.

Miss Turner was lovely in a quaint toilet, made 1830 style, the material white lisse painted in roses. The luncheon in detail was one of the prettiest and most complete entertainments of the after Easter season.

Meetings.

The Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. William J. Govan, 65 West Pine street, at 3:30 o'clock.

GEORGIA WOMAN HONORED BY D. A. R. CONVENTION

Washington, April 22.—The election of officers and the consideration in executive session of the long standing troubles between Mrs. Harriet Baird-Huey and Mrs. Thomas Roberts, of Philadelphia, involving grave charges and counter-charges, occupied today's sessions of the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss C. L. Bowman, of Connecticut; Mrs. A. E. Henneberger, of Virginia; Mrs. J. N. Carey, of Indiana; Mrs. R. E. Park, of Georgia; Mrs. L. H. Clay, of Kentucky; Mrs. E. C. Williams, of Maryland; Mrs. G. W. Simpson, of Massachusetts; Mrs. A. R. Bedel, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Henry E. Burnham, of New Hampshire, were declared elected vice presidents general. There was one other vacancy among the vice presidents general to be filled at this congress, and for this votes were cast for Mrs. W. S. Little, of New York; Mrs. J. V. Quarles, of Mississippi; Miss Virginia Miller, District of Columbia, and Mrs. Dennis Eagan, of Florida. The vote for the first three resulted in a tie and Mrs. Eagan withdrew her name. The remaining three names were again balloted upon and meanwhile the election was announced of the following officers:

Recording secretary general, Mrs. W. E. Fuller, District of Columbia; treasurer general, Mrs. M. E. S. Davis, District of Columbia; historian general, Mrs. Jonathan P. Dolliver, Iowa; registrar general, Mrs. A. C. Geer, District of Columbia; editor and business manager, respectively, of the official magazine of the organization, Mrs. Rachel Avery, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Lillian Lockwood, District of Columbia.

The balloting was long and tedious, and the debate that preceded it at times was acrimonious.

The Philadelphia controversy has been a disturbing factor in the Pennsylvania delegation for several years. Mrs. Huey is the regent of the Declaration of Independence Chapter, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Roberts was formerly state regent, during the incumbency of which office she deposed Mrs. Huey from office and made serious personal charges against her, resulting in a suit for slander instituted against Mrs. Roberts by Mrs. Huey.

SPARKS FROM DIAMOND.

Two.

Still on top.

Cargo is still out of the game.

The new infield is working nicely. All the players are in great shape.

Jack Ely let down the Montgomery team with few hits. That year Jack was their hoodoo and he is likely to act in the same capacity for another season.

And just to think that a year ago Montgomery considered Ely too slow for her team. And now he is skinning them alive. He is thinking of introducing another little specialty entitled "how Jack Ely eats them alive." Come and see him.

Two pitchers have shown up in good shape, Ely and Hardy. And there are many others still on tap. After the game last Wednesday Pabst turned to Powell and asked, "Where did you get that left-hander?" "Why," said Abner, "he came from Buffalo." "Do you reckon that fool has any more he wants to get rid of?" said Pabst. "I tell you this, I will take my chances of signing any man he releases."

Delehanty is one of the neatest and most valuable players on the Montgomery team. He fields accurately and throws beautifully. Yesterday he stopped several hot grounders from Atlanta bats.

In the melee of a few nights ago when torches were being distributed for a torch light procession by a candidate for solicitor, Smith played an important part. He waded into the crowd and waited to get a torch. Several of them were thrown down on the crowd from the transom above and one burst open, distributing the oil impartially over Smith's countenance. Still, he swiped the torch and intends to have it ready for a dark day in order to get better light to pitch by.

Hollingsworth continues his good work. He cracked out a good clean hit yesterday.

Krug is smashing out the ball at a great rate so far. In the two games played he has collected two swatlets in each game or four in all. As he has only been at the bat seven times he has a batting average so far of .571. Not so bad.

And Ben Kohler has managed to sneak in three hits out of seven times up. If he can keep this work up he will soon be in the first division of hitters of the Southern League.

Before the first game Manager Powell received a telegram from Washington fans stating that they were rooting for him. Thanks, Washington.

After the first game a telegram was received from friends in Montgomery by the members of the team. It read, "Cheer up." It might have added, "The worst is yet to come."

The coon's foot is still doing its work. And poor Nashville, the team of teams, dropped the first.

Cargo is still sick. He will be all right in a few days, however, and will probably be back at his old stand soon.

Manager Powell states that he will probably use Smith in the first game against Nashville. He is anxious to win this contest and will take three games if possible.

Montgomery has felt the worth of Hardy and Ely. Just wait until they line-up against Smith and McCay and McMakin and a few others ready for them.

McCay drew a base on balls in the first and later scored on a hit by Krug.

Captain Bill Mellor got in his work yesterday at the bat. He smashed out a timely two-bagger to center. Molesworth made a great run for the ball, but barely got his fingers on it.

REPORT OF CAPTAIN COWLES.

No Business of Importance Before Cabinet Yesterday.

Washington, April 22.—Aside from some naval matters which were brought up by Secretary Moody, no business of importance was transacted at today's meeting of the cabinet. All the members were present except Secretary Taft and Postmaster General Payne.

Secretary Moody presented a report from Captain Cowles, of the battle ship Missouri, giving the details of the disaster on that ship. Captain Cowles described the danger in which the great vessel was and spoke of the remarkable presence of mind and courage of the entire personnel of the crew at the moment when it was supposed the vessel was doomed to destruction.

Munsey Consolidates Papers.

Boston, April 22.—The Boston Evening News, owned by Frank A. Munsey, of New York, today announced that on Monday The News would be consolidated with The Boston Journal. In the announcement Mr. Munsey said his action is due to an often-expressed belief that it is not satisfactory to produce in a single newspaper shop two papers a day.

Good Part of the Money Went to Nashville Owners—Jockey Pierce Hurt in the Steeplechase. Harlan and Platt Engage in Fight.

Nashville, Tenn., April 22.—Nashville owners got a good part of the money at Cumberland park today, their colors being to the front in four events. Spring-like weather drew a large crowd and the public had much the better of the day's argument with the books. In the steeplechase Snowdrift unseated her rider, Pierce, who was slightly hurt, and Camembert fell. As a sequel to the running yesterday of Scott Harlan's Chockayotte by Andy Platt, Harlan and Platt clashed at Cumberland park this morning. Platt immediately afterwards preferred charges of assault against Harlan, which the executive committee will hear tomorrow.

RAILROAD STRIKERS FIRM.

Hungarian Government Preparing to Put in New Men.

Budapest, Hungary, April 22.—The railroad strikers are now showing little disposition to return to work unless their demands for increased pay are conceded.

Premier Tisza announced in the diet today that as a result of the conferences there appeared little prospect of a settlement. The government was taking measures to assure the resumption of the service on a limited scale.

Unless the strikers retturned to duty in the course of the day new men would be installed and the strikers would permanently lose their positions.

Where They Play Today.

Montgomery in Atlanta.
Nashville in Birmingham.
Shreveport in New Orleans.
Little Rock in Memphis.

The hoodoo has taken a back seat. It was pushed to the rear when Atlanta took the opening game, and yesterday it was pushed still farther back, when the Crackers won again.

Score: Atlanta 4, Montgomery 1.

Somehow things have assumed a different look now that the season has really begun and the records made by the different teams in exhibition games are forgotten in the actual present.

Poor Atlanta and poor Memphis! This was the cry from every southern township wherein the home team was wiping up the earth with big league teams which had not struck their proper gait.

"Why Atlanta hasn't even a look in in the Southern League race this year," this from New Orleans, and from Nashville and a few others.

Still this team of poor Crackers has taken the series from Montgomery and stands as even chance at least to take all three games and send Montgomery home minus three instead of plus three, as was the case last season at the opening.

The way Uncle Abner's team wiped up the Montgomery players yesterday was a genuine treat to the large crowd of fans who had braved the cold to see Atlanta win her second victory. Poor Montgomery. She claims to have a bunch of heavy hitters, sons of swat, sluggers from Mudville, and yet for two straight days Atlanta has outhit her and outfielded her at every point.

Uncle Abner was feeling in a joyful mood Wednesday night after the completion of the first game and was well disposed toward the world.

"It is evident," said he, "that the Legislators cannot hit a left-hander, equally probable that they cannot slug a pitcher who uses curves. So I will put Jack in tomorrow and let him throw the ball straight over just around the shoulders of the Montgomery players, and give the poor fellows a chance."

Easy Work for Ely.

Jack went in and he followed his instructions all through the live-long game. Every ball pitched went straight over the plate without curve, simply tangling itself around the necks of the heavy sluggers.

It was useless from the first. Jack had the other side faded and enjoyed himself striking them out at times and curbing their hitting propensities at all times. It was not until two or three men were on bases that he really tried to pitch and then the way that the batters went back to the bench was a dream of intoxicating delight.

And all the time Manager Stickney, of the Montgomery team, was looking on sadly and mournfully, thinking of the time when Ely was a member of the Legislators.

That was a long time ago, but it is still remembered over in Montgomery. At the beginning of the season last year Jack was with Montgomery. Thinking him the least desirable pitcher in the bunch he was released to Atlanta for a consideration.

All that year Jack was a thorn in the side of his former club. During the season he won many games from them. Whenever Atlanta met the Legislators Jack was sent in and it was seldom to Atlanta's sorrow.

The playing was swift and clean on both sides. Krug fell into the error column twice during the game, but atoned for these trifling faults, which did not cost runs, by cutting off a man at home plate.

A man was on first and another on third. The batter was sure and reliable. Luskey took the first ball from the pitcher and snapped it down to Hollingsworth at second to catch the runner attempting a stolen base. The base was stolen and on the throw, Jahnsing on third, attempted to come in home. Holly snapped the ball to Krug at third, and Krug whipped the ball in toward home with all the strength of his great right arm. The runner was caught at home plate and put out.

McCay's Good Work.

Another great feature of the game was a great running catch for McCay in right field. It was in the fifth inning and two men were on bases. Clarke smashed the ball out to right far to one side of the fielder, but it mattered not. McCay was there at the right moment and pulled the fly down with ease. Two other good catches were also recorded.

The work of Delehanty at short for the visitors was the best on his team. He knocked down several swift hits and fielded his position accurately and effectively.

Atlanta made her first run in the first. Again it was Krug who drove in the first run, McCay scoring. In the sixth the Crackers won the game, piling up three runs. Crozier reached first on an error of Manners; Mellor got a two-bagger to center; then hits by Hollingsworth and Koehler and a succession of wild throws let three runs in.

The official score follows:

EUGENE KELLY WON HONORS.

Atlanta Boy Won Majority of Events in University School Track Meet.

Eugene Kelly, of Atlanta, carried off the honors in the annual field day meet of the university school at Stone mountain.

He won the faculty medal given for the highest average. Kelley came out first in the hundred-yard dash, in the running high jump, in the hammer throw, in the running broad jump, in the standing broad jump, and in the half mile race. In the majority of the events the winner broke the school record and established others which will stand for some time.

CLEMSON WINS FROM THE TECH

Lucky Streak of Local Collegians Broken Yesterday.

At last, after a string of hard-fought victories on the diamond, the Tech team, the proud handiwork of Coach Heisman, went down in defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of a husky batch of South Carolina youngsters representing Clemson. The text of the tragedy was 6 to 1.

All the run getting that the Blacksmiths indulged in was in the second inning, when one run was marked up. Up to the fourth inning it looked very much like the same old story, another Tech victory. But when that fateful inning was over the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of the South Carolinans, and although there were future events in run getting for Clemson, the fourth inning told the story.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Dendy for the visitors, who was a complete puzzle to the local team. Only two Blacksmiths were able to solve his puzzling benders. They were Gager and Richardson.

Poole, who occupied the slab for the Techs, was effective in every inning but the fourth and sixth. He yielded nine hits to the heavy batting visitors.

The Clemson batters were in unusually good shape. They bunched their hits in artistic fashion and whenever a hit was needed to bring in a run it was forthcoming.

Four bases on balls and a wild pitch by Poole, errors by Gager, Ison and Richards helped things along a little for Clemson.

The Tech fans were very confident of another victory when the game started. Many rooters filled the stands, as did many pretty girls, and they all made as much noise as possible in the interests of their respective teams.

There was much gloom in the Tech camp after the game was over, as this was the first defeat of the season. Coach Heisman, of the Techs, has for several years coached the Clemson baseball teams and he lost yesterday to the men he had trained last year.

ROBINSON WAS HARD HIT.

Vanderbilt Turns Tables on the Alabama Team in Second Game.

Nashville, Tenn., April 22.—(Special.)—Vanderbilt turned the tables on Alabama today, winning the game 12 to 4. The commodores were in better form than the day before, played faster ball, hit harder and ran the bases like veterans. Robinson did not give the Commodore swatters any trouble, as they found hits when they were needed. Weaver pitched a steady game and kept the hits of the Tuscaloosans scattered. The features of the game were Clary's daring base runnings, his and Hamilton's batting and Redden's beautiful running catch, in right field that retired the side with two men on bases. Both sides played fast ball, three double plays being made.

RAIN AND WARMER TODAY.

Weather Conditions Favor Warmer Temperatures and Occasional Showers.

The weather today is likely to include showers and warmer temperature.

There was nothing of the sensational in the conditions yesterday. The "high" which was central in Michigan has moved to the St. Lawrence valley and the "low" whose trough extended to the east side of the Rockies, has centered over the Dakotas. A general rise in temperature was reported except in Texas.

Cloudiness continues except in the east and northeast. Rain was reported at Portland, Oreg.; Jacksonville, Davenport and St. Paul. Snow fell at Rapid City, S. Dak.

AUBURN READY FOR TECH TODAY

Game Will Be Played at the Exposition Park Today.

Auburn and Tech meet today at Exposition park.

The game will be one of the last played in Atlanta by the Tech team this year. With the exception of the Memorial day game and a possible series with Furman, it will close the season in Atlanta.

Auburn is in great shape this year and she comes to Atlanta confident that she will defeat the Tech and in some measure make up for her defeat in the series played with Alabama.

If Auburn can win from Tech, the students in their college will believe that they have in some measure evened up with Alabama. For the Alabama team came to Atlanta and dropped three to Tech. Strengthened by the return of crippled players to the game Alabama met Auburn in three games and made things warm for her at once, winning two out of the three games played. But if Auburn can win from Tech, she will be winning from the college that won from Alabama, and this will console her students.

In Weems, once a Tech student, Auburn has a great twirler, who has done good work for her in all her games. Besides this, she has a number of good players on her team and these men are improving in batting every day.

Still Tech has no intention of losing today, and all the students at that institution are confident that Tech will be on top when the game has been played.

The Blacksmiths are in great all-round form and are ready to play the game of their lives.

The strength of the Techs this year lies in their batting strength. Early in the year Coach Heisman began to train them in batting, both in slugging the ball and in bunting.

The men proved to be apt pupils and the team has now progressed to a point where the coach is well pleased with the work of the men composing the club.

Richardson has come back to the game after being out for several weeks, and is playing splendid ball. Woodward is probably the best catcher in the south and is the ideal man for the position of captain. He has perfect control over his team and steadies the men at critical moments.

The pitching staff is strong and willing and all three men have shown nice form in the games played.

WISHES EMIGRANTS BACK.

King Victor Emmanuel Says America Improves Italians.

Rome, April 22.—Charlemagne Tower, the United States ambassador to Germany, who is here on a visit to Ambassador Meier, was received today in private and most cordial audience by King Victor Emmanuel, who conversed with him lengthily about the United States, showing great interest in its public affairs and the progress it has achieved and demonstrating a thorough knowledge of the subject. The king referred to the ever-increasing number of Italian emigrants and how they benefited by the American spirit. During the course of his remarks he exclaimed:

"I wish some of them at least would return."

International Shooting Match.

New York, April 22.—The challenge from the Cercle des Carbineers of Paris has been accepted by the Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Association for a match team of fifteen men a side to shoot with rifle and revolver. The French shotsmen will shoot at their ranges in Paris with a representative of the American contestants there and the American teams will shoot on a range near New York under the eyes of a French representative.

CLOSING PRICES PRACTICALLY BEST

Into Sight Figures for the WeekProved Bearish.

THEY HAD BEEN DISCOUNTED

Exports for Day Were Heavy and a Rather Better Spot Demand South Was Reported—Closed 5 to 10 Points Lower.

New oYrk, April 22.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 3@12 points under liquidation and bear pressure following rather lower cables than expected, continued reports of more favorable weather and a prospect for a bearish insight statement. As has been the case of late, there seemed to be some buying of May for the account of spot interests at the decline and this served to check the decline somewhat, while it also promoted some covering. Notwithstanding this however, the market for the first few minutes showed further weakness and increased the losses a matter of from 9 to 16 points, with July selling down to 13.89, against 14.05 on the previous night. This was followed by a series of very narrow and irregular fluctuations with trading very quiet and limited almost entirely to the scalping contingent. New Orleans did not appear to be doing anything in the local market, and the demand noted for May at the opening seemed to "peter out" soon after the call. Estimates for tomorrow's receipts at leading points were rather full from a bullish standpoint, but under last year's figures, and the into sight for the week proved quite as bearish as had been anticipated. It appeared to have been discounted, however, for the market during the afternoon ruled fairly steady, being within 2 to 3 points of the best for the session, with room shorts showing a disposition to cover, although a bearish visible supply statement is expected tomorrow. Sales were estimated at 200,000 bales. Exports for the day were heavy, reaching about 25,000 bales and southern advices indicated rather a better demand for spot cotton for foreign account.

The New Orleans Cotton Market.

New Orleans, April 22.—Spot cotton firm and in good demand. Sales 6,300 bales, including 600 to arrive and 5,300 f. o. b. Quotations advanced 1-16c.

Futures opened quiet with prices from 5 to 9 points lower than the close of yesterday. Liverpool and New York were lower and affected the local market, keeping prices well below yesterday's closing during the earlier hours of the session, but later along there was a sharp rally, which carried prices up to yesterday's finals. In the trading May first lost 6 points to 13.96, declined to 13.89, from which there was an advance to 14.03. The market closed quiet, the list showing 1 point higher to 2 points lower for the old crop months and 4 to 9 points lower on the new.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, April 22.—The dry goods market has been quiet, although gossip has been busy about the transactions that have been consummated on certain lines of print yarn construction. The volume is higher and the price lower than was generally estimated while in narrow odds sales have been larger and on a basis of 3½c for regulars.

L. J. Anderson & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 22.—The best that can be said of cotton market is that it is a scalping affair, the movement generally covering 20 points, and trading confined mostly to the professional element. The local market was 3 to 10 points lower at the opening as a result of lower cables, moderate liquidation and bear pressure. An improvement in weather conditions and a continuance of rather heavier receipts than expected were used as bear arguments. The news generally favored the bears, and while fluctuations were confined within a narrow range, there was enough pressure brought to bear to close the market 5 to 10 points lower. Port receipts today 7,807, against 8,116 last year.

The Howell Jones Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, Apri 22.—Cotton futures in the local market opened rather easy in tone today at a decline from 1 to 12 points. There was a moderate line of liquidation and bear pressure again was in evidence. Foreign advices were disappointing, showing greater weakness than looked for. Receipts were larger than predicted, and this factor also served to discourage holders. On the other hand, there was a good demand for spot cotton, and advices from the spot centers served to encourage outside longs. Shorts were nervous as the day wore on, and they took advantage of the lower levels on which to reduce their commitments. However, there was an easy tone throughout on the persistent efforts of the bears to depress the market, and in the latter part of the day there was a disposition on the part of holders to refrain from loading up further. European houses were reported to be selling the market on all advances, while the southern markets were inclined to heaviness. The crop news was conflicting, although many definite predictions with reference to the crop possibilities. Port receipts for the day figured at about 7,000 bales, against 4,374 last week and 8,116 last year. For the week 56,000 bales, against 27,000 last week and 84,000 last year. The insight and other statistics generally met expectations and the late market was dull and nervous.

Yesterday's Port Receipts.

The following table shows receipts at the ports yesterday, compared with the same day last year:

Pointers for Today.

New Orleans expects 1,600 to 2,100 bales, against 2,554 actual last year; Galveston 1,000 to 1,300, against 3,872 actual last year; Houston 1,000 to 1,200 bales, against —— actual last year.

Cothran & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 22.—Lower prices and a quiet market were the chief features of cotton today. Liverpool continues in Manchester, while quotations in the English market follow the downward course. No explanation has been offered for this inconsistency and traders are left to guess about the actual facts of the case.

World's Visible Supply of Cotton.

New Orleans, April 22.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before.

It shows a decrease for the week just closed of 2,152, against a decrease of 101,526 last year and a decrease of 110,912 year before last.

The total visible is 2,954,649, against 2,956,846 last week, 3,242,201 last year and 3,724,598 year before last.

Of this the total of American cotton is 1,857,694, against 1,908,846 last week, 2,061,201 last year and 2,606,598 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,097,000, against 1,048,000 last week, 1,181,000 last year and 1,118,000 year before last.

The total world's visibly supply of cotton, as above, shows a decrease compared with last week of 2,152, a decrease compared with last year of 287,507, a decrease compared with year before last of 769,904.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton, as above, there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 1,684,000, against 1,880,000 last year and 2,031,000 year before last; in Egypt 203,000, against 97,000 last year and 176,000 year before last; in India 433,000 against 714,000 last year and 610.000 year before last; and in the United States 635,000, against 551,000 last year and 908,000 year before last.

Cincinnati, April 22.—Flour dull. Wheat steady. Corn dull; No. 2 mixed 52 1-2. Oats dull; No. 2 mixed 41@41 1-2.

Cincinnati, April 22.—Lard steady at 6.10. Bulk meats quiet at 6.50. Bacon steady at 7.75.

Bruce & Co.'s Daily Market Letter.

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Lower Liverpool cables caused an easy opening in the cotton market, prices being from 3 to 12 points lower. Trading was quiet, but the market was steady at the decline. There was an increasing tendency toward narrowness both in respect to the volume of transactions and fluctuations, about the only activity coming from the scalping operations of the various room traders.

WHEAT AT START ABOUT UNCHANGED

Market Collapsed Suddenly and Declined One Cent,

TRADING WAS VERY ACTIVE

July Closed Weak 7-8 to 1c Lower. Corn Closed 3-8 to 1-2 and Oats 1-2 to 5-8c Down—Provisions Practically Unchanged.

Chicago, April 22.—Revision of expert reports making wheat conditions in the southwest more bearish was largely instrumental in starting heavy liquidation today. July closed 7-8@1c lower. Corn is off 3-8@1-2 and oats 1-2@5-8 down, and provisions practically unchanged.

For a minute or two at the start in the wheat pit there was an air of uncertainty and prices were about unchanged, with July 1-8 to 1-4 lower at 85 1-8 to 85 1-4. Suddenly the market collapsed and a decline of 1c or more was experienced in all deliveries. Trading became active. A correction of a crop expert's report of the southwestern situation making it more bearish caused considerable buying on the supposition that western Kansas and western Oklahoma were the portions of the southwestern territory referred to in the report. Sellers had in the meantime ascertained that the irredeemable portion of the southwestern fields was confined to Texas and western Oklahoma. A cable dispatch from Liverpool stated that millers were buying considerable Indian wheat for May-June shipment at the equivalent of 83c a bushel. Such a contrast with the prices at which wheat could be laid down from here had much to do with the heavy selling pressure. In addition there was a large increase in Argentina shipments. No attention was paid to crop damage reports from the Ohio valley and Indiana, the general desire being to liquidate long wheat. Many stop loss orders came out. The only demand came from shorts, but there was not sufficient buying to cause any great rally and the market continued demoralized the entire session, the close being weak. July closed at 84 3-8@84 1-2. May closed at 88 3-8. Clearances equalled 145,900 bushels. Primary receipts were 230,100 bushels, against 286,500 a year ago. Bradstreet's reported world's exports as equal to 1,645,400 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported 161 cars, against 153 last week and 167 a year ago.

Corn was weak in sympathy with wheat. Over a million bushels of May were reported sold by a former bull leader. There was a little firmness early, but on the break in wheat liquidation of May corn began and prices went down. The market was inclined to drag and the support was scant. July closed at 48 1-8@48 1-4. May closed 1 1-8 lower at 48. Receipts 133 cars, 25 contract.

Pit traders were persistent sellers of distant deliveries of oats. As a result the market ruled weak and lower. The principal support came from shorts. July closed at 35 7-8@38. Receipts 51 cars.

Provisions were quiet and in view of the weakness in grains, held comparatively steady. There was some selling on liberal hog receipts, but the market received fair support. July pork closed 7 1-2c lower, July lard a shade higher and ribs off a shade.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

Coffee and Sugar.

New York, April 22.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at a decline of 5@10 points under moderate liquidation following weak cables. There was a fair demand, however, from the trade interests and later in the day there seemed to be some covering, which absorbed the demand promptly and held the market steady, with the close at unchanged prices to a decline of 5 points. There was considerable switching from the near to the more distant positions again and the volume of fresh transactions was small; sales 40,750 bags; April 5.90; May 5.90; July 6.10@6.15; August 6.25; September 6.35@6.40; December 6.65@6.75; March 6.90@6.95. Hester's Weekly Cotton Crop Statement.

New Orleans, April 22.—Secretary Hester's weekly New Orleans cotton exchange statement, issued before the close of business today, shows a decrease in the movement into sight compared with the seven days ending this date last year in round figures of 34,000, a decrease under the same days year before last of 5,000 and a decrease under the same time in 1901 of 11,000.

For the twenty-two days of April the totals show a decrease under last year of 140,000, a decrease under the same period year before last of 49,000 and a decrease under the same time in 1901 of 133,000.

For the seven months and twenty-two days of the season that have elapsed the aggregate is behind the seven months and twenty-two days of last year 475,000, behind the same days year before last 244,000, and ahead of 1901 by 197,000.

The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 78,530 bales, against 112,493 for the seven days ending this date last year, 83,694 year before last and 89,075 same time in 1901, and for the twenty-two days of April it has been 209,801 against 349,997 last year, 258,518 year before last and 342,708 the same time in 1901.

The movement since September 1 shows receipts at all United States ports 6,839,092, against 7,288,417 last year, 7,136,060 year before last and 6,715,159 same time in 1901; overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada 881,668, against 993,951 last year, 1,031,240 year before last and 973,034 same time in 1001; interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year 189,656, against 106,226 last year, 154,917 year before last and 441,773 same time in 1901; southern mills takings 1,504,000, against 1,501,069 last year, 1,336,589 year before last and 1,087,061 same time in 1901.

These make the total movement for the seven months and twenty-two days of the season from September 1 to date 9,414,416, against 9,889,663 last year, 9,658,806 year before last and 9,217,027 same time in 1901.

Foreign exports for the week have been 111,789, against 33,131 last year, making the total thus far for the season 5,446,336, against 6,117,495 last year, a decrease of 672,159.

Northern mills takings and Canada during the past seven days show a decrease of 17,037, as compared with the corresponding period last year, and their total takings since September 1 have increased 23,161.

The total takings of American mills, north, south and Canada, thus far for the season have been 3,514,577, against 3,445,377 last year. These include 1,944,266 by northern spinners, against 1,921,105.

Stocks at the seaboard and the twenty-nine leading southern interior centers have decreased during the week 86,851 bales, against an increase during the corresponding period last season of 3,735 and are now 80,437 larger than at this date in 1903.

Including stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop, and the number of bales brought into sight thus far from the new crop, the supply to date is 9,582,215, against 10,104,737 for the same period last year.

OUR FRIEND and name-sake "F. L. S."
Talks of summer breezes all the time.
He goes by the almanac, I guess,
And is just trying to make a rhyme.
If by the thermometer he'd go
He'd find no summer breezes blow;
But if he will call at the Rummagee,
Hot bargains he will surely see.

TRADING PUBLIC WAS INDIFFERENT

Volume of Dealing Declined to Point Near Stagnation.

ACTIVE STOCKS STATIONARY

The Stagnation of Stocks Became Almost Complete Late in the Day, and the Closing Was Irregular—Bonds Were Neglected.

New York, April 22.—No incident in the day's news today proved an incentive to operations in stocks, and the volume of dealings declined successively to a point nearer stagnation. Neither was it clear that any positive discouragement to help speculation was offered. The trading public was, however, indifferent and almost idle. Some of the usually active stocks did not move at all, while others did not open until late in the day. On the other hand, there were a number of specialties quoted which may remain dormant for months at a time. The advancing tendency of Union Pacific proved a sustaining influence on the whole of the general list against the contrary influence of the rather marked depression in United States Steel preferred. The local tractions advanced in an irregular manner. Bids for Commercial Cable were advanced 17 points before bringing out an offer and a movement in Mackay companies on the curb accomplished this rise with rumors of an affiliation with telephone interests. The decline in United States Rubber preferred was on realizing on yesterday's rise, explained by the declaration of a dividend after yesterday's market closed. Weather conditions were more favorable, both for the opening of belated spring business and for the crops, and the weakness in the wheat market gave emphasis to this condition. Neither one nor all of these developments caused any appreciable movement of prices in the market. Neither did the extraordinary ease of the money market affect the stock market. Several million dollars were reported loaned on call at 1 per cent and the demand for time loans was practically stagnant. The forecast of the week's currency movement shows a further enormous accession of cash by the banks, the estimates of the week's movement to this center running as high as $12,000,000. Sterling exchange was easy, but this was plausibly supposed to be on account of bills sold against further gold exports. The stagnation of stocks became almost complete late in the day.

Bonds were neglected and about steady. Total sales, par value, $1,805,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call 1@1¼ per cent, closing bid at 1; offered at 1¼; time loans easy and dull; 60 and 90 days 2¼@3 per cent; six months 3@3½; prime mercantile paper, 4@4½.

Sterling exchange easier with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.87.25@4.87.30 for demand and at $4.85.30@4.85.35 for 60-day bills; posted rates $4.86½@4.86 and $4.88½; commercial bills $4.85½.

Bar silver 54½c.

Corn, spot irregular; No. 2 nominal; options opened fairly steady, but at once shared the wheat heaviness and declined, closing 1-2@3-4c lower; May 54; July 53 1-8. Oats quiet; No. 2 44 1-2c.

Chicago, April 22.—Cash quotations were as follows: Flour dull and easy. No. 2 spring wheat 88@92; No. 3 85@92; No. 2 red 95@99. No. 2 corn 49@49 1-2; No. 2 yellow 50 1-2. No. 2 oats 36 1-2@37; No. 2 white —; No. 3 white 38@41. No. 2 rye 66.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 22.—The dullness of the market has been the only noticeable facture, with a small demand at the early decline and a moderate supply at the later advance, the easing of Liverpool mitigating against any permanent improvement here for the time being. It must be said that the quietness was not wholly unwelcome.

TRADE SITUATION.

New York, April 22.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Unseasonably cold weather all over the country interferes with plant preparations and growth and interrupts outdoor activity in many lines, notably building. Distributive trade, both wholesale and retail, has practically "marked time" during the week. The effects of this and of past unfavorable weather are reflected in reports of slow business in shoe manufacturing and building, while in cotton manufacturing high prices of raw and manufactured goods continue a bar to activity. At the south cold weather is complained of as interfering with farming operations and with plant growth. These causes have combined to give an air of unwonted quiet to spring business and have unquestionably retarded collections. Back of weather and price conditions, too, there looms up the political outlook, which in most presidential years, has induced a tendency toward conservatism.

"Among the industries iron and steel are even more quiet than last week. Buyers for delivery during the second quarter are as insistent as ever in demands for delivery, but makers of finished products, with few exceptions, observe hesitation in the placing of orders for the balance of the year, this hesitancy being increased by the reduction in the price of ore. Agricultural implement manufacturers are among the freest buyers of steel, but the railroads are taking only sparingly.

"Woolen goods and machinery could be more active, and the market for raw wool is rather low at the east, though higher prices than last year are reported being paid for the new wool clip at the west.

"Raw cotton has weakened.

"There are some exceptions to the quiet tone noted, especially in the rubber trade which is quite active.

"In lumber, which shows more activity in some sections, in hardware, and in anthracite coal, which is selling well in anticipation of the usual monthly advances and on continued cold weather. A fair spring trade is being done in staple groceries and some lines which fluctuate little from year to year.

"The poor trade in flour was a depressing feature this week, the mills refusing much business at the lower rates. Some export business was reported done at the declines in wheat and corn. Hog products declined again, though receipts are smaller and prices of animals higher.

"Coffee declined slightly on larger receipts.

"Wheat, including flour exports for the week ending April 21, aggregate 1,645,428 bushels, against 1,213,855 last week and 3,888,542 same week last year. From July 1, 1903, to date they aggregate 120,696,287 bushels, against 183,671,095 last season.

"Corn exports for the week aggregate 626,792 bushels, against 583,339 last week and 1,499,906 a year ago. From July 1, 1903, to date, they aggregate 48,762,377 bushels, against 53,104,805 last season.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending with April 21 number 199, against 198 last week and 152 in the like week in 1903. Canadian failures for the week number 11, against 20 last week and 13 in this week a year ago."

Dun's Review.

New York, April 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Unseasonable weather is still the chief drawback to improvement in business, complaints being received from every section of the country and slower collections are also attributed to this fact. Not only is current distribution of merchandise, particularly dry goods, affected by the thermometer, but future commitments are undertaken most conservatively on account of the possible injury to crops. There has been much talk of damage to cotton, but replanting may prevent any reduction in the total yield, and a few weeks of desirable weather would relieve anxiety regarding wheat. There is much confidence regarding the future despite the fact that at many points supplies of merchandise are burdensome. With the exception of wearing apparel, manufacturing plants are increasingly active and structural work is gradually resuming normal proportions for the season. May 1 is usually the date fixed for many labor controversies, but this year there is little prospects of a serious disturbance. Trade in liquors is improving and domestic tobacco again advanced sharply in the Louisville market. At the west railway freight tonnage has not increased, but passenger traffic is very heavy and earnings of all roads thus far reporting in April are only 4.5 per cent smaller than last year."

RAILWAY NOTES.

Chairman Harry Walters, of the Atlantic Coast Line and the Louisville and Nashville; President Milton N. Smith, of the Louisville and Nashville; President J. W. Thomas, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and J. W. Thomas, Jr., general manager of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, formed a party of distinguished visitors who rolled into Atlanta yesterday in their private car.

The party came here from Marietta over the Western and Atlantic after making a tour of inspection of the Louisville and Nashville which was brought to an end by the inspection of the site of the proposed freight terminals of the Louisville and Nashville and Coast Line in this city. While none of the railroad magnates were willing to talk for publication, they seem to have enjoyed their trip and were especially glad to meet many of their old friends in Atlanta.

And now comes the story again of the new line from Wetmore to Dalton and from Wetmore to Cartersville, which is given added interest by the fact that the magnates who arrived yesterday are said to have been giving this matter their especial attention. As has been previously reported the Louisville and Nashville have for some time been looking for a new route for the Atlanta, Knoxille and Nashville, as the present line includes very heavy grades and is very expensive to operate. The Louisville and Nashville have already spent a great deal of money in improving the upper end of the Atlanta, Knoxville and Nashville, but to get a better grade to Marietta will practically require the rebuilding of the line.

The proposed new line is from Wetmore to Dalton and also from Wetmore to Cartersville. This latter route would come directly through some of the most valuable districts in Georgia and would be, so it is reported, only a little longer than by the present line and with comparatively no heavy grades.

In the proposed line from Wetmore to Dalton, the Louisville and Nashville would get a line from Knoxville to Chattanooga, 167 miles long, against its present route of 325 miles via Marietta and as against 131 by the Southern.

By the proposed line to Cartersville, from Wetmore, connecting with the Seaboard at Cartersville, the Louisville and Nashville could run through trains from Knoxville to Birmingham and in this way have an open outlet to and from both the iron and coal fields of Alabama and Tennessee.

While the reporter could get no confirmation of the story from officials, it was reported that the surveys for the new lines were satisfactory and that the actual work of construction would begin very shortly.

Atlanta's Great Growth.

The railroads are preparing to bring large crowds of visitors from all parts of the state and from the south to Atlanta on Memorial day. An effort is also being made to have the tickets for this excursion last long enough to enable visitors to remain over to the great auction of real estate known as the Collier property. Incidentally, the following clipped from The Augusta Chronicle is sure to prove interesting to every Atlantan, giving as it does an index to the wonderful growth, prosperity and enterprise of Atlanta:

"Nothing more fully illustrates the growth of Atlanta than the history of certain Peachtree street property, advertised for sale in this issue. Originally all the property in Georgia was owned by the state. On November 17, 1825, land lot No. 105 was drawn by Jonathan Carroll, who held it about two years and sold it to Anson Kimberly for $50. Kimberly died, and in 1847 his administrator sold the entire land lot of 202½ acres to George Washington Collier for $150, which was doubtless considered a very full price for it at that time, as it was just three times what Kimberly had paid for it twenty years before. On April 5th instant, Mr. Collier's administrator sold the same land lot at the court house to a syndicate known as the Southern Real Estate Improvement Company, for the enormous sum of $300,000, and it is generally conceded that the syndicate got a great bargain even at that figure. Mr. Collier bought this property before there was even a cross-roads store where Atlanta now stands, and lived on it up to his death last year, at the age of 89. He had steadfastly refused to sell any of the land, although offered handsome prices for it, and parties desiring to locate their homes on Peachtree street have been compelled to go more than a mile beyond this property to secure suitable locations. A great many of Atlanta's most prominent and influential men have built beautiful and palatial homes beyond this property, and nearly every available lot within 4½ miles of the center of the city has been bought up for that purpose, which tends now to make this tract of land central Peachtree property.

"No city in the union is attracting more attention today than Atlanta. It is well named the Gate City of the south, as it is the natural distributing point for the whole southeast section of the country, and its progress is illustrated by the phenomenal increase in postal receipts and bank clearings for the past few years, as well as by the large amount expended during that period in the erection of buildings. The postal receipts have increased from $201,649 in 1894 to about $540,000 for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1904, based on nine months' actual receipts, and three months estimated, an increase of nearly 160 per cent. The bank clearings have increased from $56,589 in 1894, to $144,992,037 in 1903, an increase of about 156 per cent, and the present indications are that there will be an increase of about 10 per cent in 1904. Within the last seven years the large sum of $13,094,000 has been expended in the erection of buildings in the city.

"The south was never more prosperous than it is today, and Atlanta, the capital of the empire state of the south, stands forth as a monument to that spirit of progress and development, which is soon to make of the south the most prosperous section of the union."

American Railroads Lead.

London, April 22.—Neville Priestly, under secretary of the government of India, railways department, who was sent to the United States last summer to study and report on American railways, has submitted his report. It is an exhaustive review of the subject, and, in conclusion, pays a high tribute to American railway enterprise and management.

"The railways of America," says Mr. Priestly, "are commercial undertakings on gigantic scale, and are operated under conditions which are to be found nowhere else in the world, since they receive no protection from the state and have had to fight their way to the front by sheer ability of management. If I have appeared enthusiastic at times, it is because I was greatly impressed by the courage with which the railroad officers have faced their difficulties and the pluck with which they overcome them. It is impossible to associate with the great men who have made their mark on American railways, I mean to say American national history, without being infected with some of the enthusiasm they show for their business and no man can travel over their railways without becoming possessed of a great deal more knowledge than he previously had, or without getting many valuable hints. Many of their methods are different from those one has been brought up to believe the only correct method; and it is not until one realizes that the one idea in the mind of American railway men is to 'get there,' and that they do 'get there' by the shortest and quickest way, and do not allow themselves to be turned aside either by red tape, old-time prejudices, tradition or any other of the bogeys by which older countries are assailed, that one understands how the results have been obtained which one sees there. American railway men are quick to see a new idea; they are quicker still to try it; they take a great pride in their profession, and are still striving to get at the science of it. That their methods are not always perfect is but what might have been expected, but they have managed to do what no other country in the world has done, and that is: Carry their goods traffic profitably at extraordinarily low rates, notwithstanding the fact that they pay more for their labor than any other country. It is in the study of how they do this that much benefit can be derived by other countires; and, if I have, in some degree, succeeded in throwing light on their methods I shall feel that I have benefited others as well as myself by my visit to that great country, where the courtesy of the people is only exceeded by their hospitality."

There were several out of town officials of the Southern in Atlanta yesterday. Among these were District Passenger Agent H. F. Cary, of Jacksonville, and Traveling Passenger Agent W. E. McGee, of Augusta.

W. P. Brawley, T. P. A. of the Big Four Route, with headquarters in Chattanooga, was an Atlanta visitor yesterday.

Willing To Overlook It.

(From The Chicago Tribune.)

"Dear sir," the general manager of the fire insurance company wrote to the local agent, "a few weeks ago your negligence in failing to notify the owners of a large office building that their insurance was about to expire, and to solicit them to reinsure, lost us a customer, and we give you a month's notice to find another situation. Inasmuch, however, as that building was burned day before yesterday, we have decided to recall the notice. We will overlook the offense this time, but don't let it happen again."
